Acknowledgements

This book has been written as a result of many requests over the years from students and audiences. They have asked where they can read about the knowledge I have shared in talks and workshops, yet there has been no single source I could refer them to. In addition, much of this information has come directly, through personal insight and inspiration. Thank you to each and every one of you, for spurring me on.

My heartfelt gratitude goes out to those who have contributed by playing with the material of the book as it has been piloted and tested through the programmes and courses I have run. And to José Argüelles without whose phenomenal decoding of the Mayan Inscriptions, this book would have been impossible.

Thank you Emma for your support and sacrifices that made the early stages of writing this book possible, and for being my greatest teacher.

I acknowledge and thank from the bottom of my heart those angels - winged and otherwise - who have shone a light of faith and inspiration on my path. And who have shared my vision with me, and held me to it:
A A Michael and Co, Debra, Sangeeta, Jacqueline, Alessandra, Nestor and Michele.

I also reach out from the depths of my heart to those who held my hand in my darkest hours, causing me to never give up on the light. You know who you are.

THE GALACTIC SILICON CHIP

The highest altar of the most sacred of all Mayan temples had been hidden behind a veil, together with the temple itself. The tropical jungle of South Central Mexico had grown like a velvet curtain across an 'Ark of the Covenant', to cover and conceal the Temple of the Inscriptions in Palenque. The highest of the high, the Mayan Lord-Priest-King, Pacal Votan lay buried within it. The huge stone slab used as the coffin lid was etched upon in the most sacred, mystical, researched and read-about of all Mayan engraving. Within this 3-ton silicon chip, is held the codes and memories of all of creation, past, present and future, to which we all have instant access.

at Palenque

Yet the verdant veil of vegetation and the earthy sands of time had wrapped themselves around the interface between this powerful transmitter station and the collective human consciousness. Thus was humanity isolated from 'the knowledge', the 'memory', and that particular connection to Creative Source. A switch had broken the circuit, a huge encryption had blocked access to this monumental well of galactic energy and information.

IMAGE 2
'The Galactic Silicon Chip'
Lid of Lord Pacal's Tomb

In 1952, an auspicious number in Mayan numerology, a highly auspicious event occurred: Architect Alberto Ruiz Senior rediscovered the temple, removing the physical blocks of jungle, earth, and the stone door to the tomb that concealed the dormant messages inside. This also re-opened the etheric portal, completing the circuit, and re-attuning earth once again to the 'galactic broadcast'.

What was so special about the numbers

1952? 19 Is the number of 'lord' or 'god' (highest imparter of universal law), and 52 is one of the most significant and multi-faceted of all Mayan numbers. Not least, it is the number of Galactic Activation Portals - days of immense energy and potential symbollised by the 52 dark squares on the Tzolkin template, Book 2, Table 13.

This rediscovery was a rebirth of galactic proportion - A fresh opportunity to access the forgotten yet timeless codes of creation. As could be expected of only the ingenious Maya, the masters of galactic TIMING, this event was synchronized in yet another way: This rebirth occurred exactly 1320 Years after the birth of the Mayan Lord Pacal. 13 and 20 are such significant numbers that together they are the basis for this entire book. José Argüelles expands on these dates and number patterns in a thesis entitled "13 Moons in Motion". And of course 2013 (those two numbers again) is the prophesied year of consciousness shift. The much prophesied and anticipated day of 21st December 2012, still falls within the Mayan Calendar year ending 24th July 2013.

"SUPERGODS"

In his remarkable book, The Supergods, Maurice Cotterell places Pacal Votan on a par with Krishna, Buddha and Jesus. He States:

"Krishna, Pacal, Buddha, and Jesus performed miracles. Jesus performed miracles and was born through immaculate conception. They say he was the son of God, the embodiment of God who preached love and purification through sacrifice. They say he was the King of the Jews. They say he will come again…

Buried beneath a pyramid in the jungles of Central America lie the bones of Lord Pacal, King of the Maya. He left us with living miracles which tell us that he gave life and took it away, that he was the feathered serpent who ruled the spirit and the flesh, that he died through sacrifice. They say he will come again…

The four supergods brought a common message, that mankind has been created in order to 'purify the spirit'..."

"The more closely we examine these four teachers, the more consistently remarkable their teachings become. Krishna, Buddha, Jesus and Pacal have all told us of another way, of an all-loving God, of a paradise that awaits us, of an everlasting life."

THE MAYA
BRINGERS OF THE CODE

There are numerous theories about the Maya. Where did they come from? How did they appear on earth and then one day mysteriously disappear in their hundreds of thousands, leaving their villages and cities empty? For many these are amongst the most interesting questions.

My interest, though, is not as much with the messengers as with the message. At the same time I do not overlook the fact that as messengers they carried out their function impeccably. They ensured it was delivered to humanity carved in stone so it would stand the test of time. Somehow they saw to it that we would discover and decode it precisely when needed by the planet, and when predicted in their own inscriptions.

Having successfully delivered the message with it's built in timing device, the Maya left it to us to decipher...

PREFACE

"The Kingdom of Heaven lies within us" Jesus

We are in a new age of awareness and rebirth, where many of our firmly held beliefs are being shaken at the roots. Thankfully, we are not our beliefs. What we believe is ephemeral - Who we are is eternal. Who we are is also divine. We can drop what we believe when we recognize that it no longer serves our divinity - When it no longer reflects who we really are. Therefore, the shedding of our outworn beliefs is intrinsic to our journey of self re-discovery. And of course, replacing those with beliefs, thus actions, and ultimately outcomes that are consistent with, and in the image, of our divinity. Thus do we re-create and rediscover ourselves in the image of our creator. This new age we have entered is the era of self-rediscovery and self-re-creation as the magnificent beings we were designed to be.

The Mayan date of prophesy, December 21st 2012, does not mark "the end of the world" as archaeologists and historians have told us. It heralds "the end of the world as we know it". The way we 'know' and see the world is through our beliefs. The most devastating of these, and the one underlying all our other obsolete convictions, has been the one of separation: That we are separate from God and thus from each other, and all of life; That the Kingdom of Heaven lies outside of us, unreachable in this lifetime.

Replacing this belief with the truth of unity – that we are all one in God – will end all wars, will heal our global environment, will heal ourselves. For healing is simply the return to wholeness, to oneness. Just as it only takes one small candle to dispel the darkness in a huge hall, so it takes a relative handful of enlightened souls to change the world. If you're reading this now, you are part of the light.

If the Winter Solstice of 2012 will be the end of the world as we know it, then the period 22 December, 2012 to July 24th 2013 will be "The start of the world as it could really be" – quite literally – heaven on earth.

In this new, magical, miraculous age, the global consciousness is shifting up a gear. What we are able to accept, embrace and evoke is expanding explosively as the collective awareness of earth mushrooms.

At the same time, the new science is telling us that the more we get to know about 'reality' the more mysterious it becomes. And that the real trick is not to 'be in the know', but to be comfortable 'being in the mystery'. As is so often the case, the ancients were telling us the same thing: Zen speaks of "living in the question" and the native Americans and others talk of "the great mystery", when referring to the universe. Two of the mayan glyphs, 'Warrior' and 'Earth', both relating to the journey of self-realisation and evolution, are designed around the image of a 'question mark'. Also, we have been told so often down the ages, that life is about the journey, not the arrival. If this is true, then why not let that journey be filled with awe and wonder? Why not view life as if for the first time, "through the eyes of a child – the eyes of innocence"?* And then let life unravel in all of its beauty and splendour, like a royal carpet before us.

How to freeze an interpretation 'in time', about something that is so wondrous – that is timeless, endless and ever expanding - is one of the great challenges in writing this book. No doubt that each time I write about the subject it will have shifted or morphed into something somewhat different to before. The trick is to not be attached to the information in this book or to any particular interpretation of it. Instead, it may serve you to test drive it as a vehicle in which to experience the "magical mystery tour" of life, as invited by the Beatles. In the process you will discover whether there is something in it that rings true for you in any moment; Something that you can explore, play with, or apply personally or professionally for a better quality of life.

The cosmology of this book is based upon 'DREAMSPELL' produced by José Arguelles, a 'modern day Leonardo da Vinci', and in my view, a prophet of the present era. Dreamspell and Jose's prolific other works, are, in my opinion, the most thorough decoding ever of the 'Galactic Codes' inscribed in stone by the Maya. Dreamspell provides the core cosmology upon which this book is based.

In the opening page of the Dreamspell Book of Kin, José writes:

"The Dreamspell is the door to the infinite.

In its presentation the parts are complete. However, the texts can only give facets of the Dreamspell's wholeness. In this respect this presentation is incomplete. There can never be a complete version of the Dreamspell, except in the wholeness of its higher dimensional form.

It is up to the user to determine on which of the elements to focus. Once understood, a single facet can open up vistas not included in this presentation. The imagination is without boundaries. The form of the Dreamspell cannot be contained but can only proliferate and grow..."

So here we have it from the maestro: - that while this cosmology is founded in unshakeable, definable roots, the way it flowers in your life is up to you. The way you interpret, apply or even teach the information is based on your own free will, as long as you are true to the basic codes, the roots of the cosmology. This book is an offshoot from the same cosmic roots: True to the underlying codes in its mathematical accuracy, yet taking a different form in it's flowering. It explores and expands a "vista" not visited explicitly in Dream-spell.

The Tzolkin on which Mayan Cosmology is based is a multi-functional template for life within a galactic community. As sure as the DNA is the genetic code, the sacred Tzolkin or 'Loom' of the Maya is the galactic code. In other words, it is a blueprint or map for all systems of conscious creation and evolution within our Milky Way galaxy, and possibly beyond. Most importantly for us, though, is how we apply creation and growth practically, NOW, on our local planet! Then can we weave heaven into earth upon our own personal 'looms'.

As beings that have largely been 3-dimensional, humans have struggled to comprehensively define or understand something so multi-dimensional. Yet as we move through the dimensional shift climaxing on the date of prophesy, 2012 – for that is what it is – we can re-experience our interconnectedness with all of life.

The power and the implications of the cosmology are profound. And as with all things profound, there is simplicity at the core. While human awareness is shifting catalytically, the basic, timeless, principles and laws always apply. This book aims to reach this simplicity by defining each Mayan number and sign, in terms of life principles.

Imagine that you could see ALL THAT IS as a cake. If you slice it with colours of the rainbow or the musical scale in mind, you will cut seven equal slices, between them making up all that is, in terms of colour or sound. If you slice it with the Vedic elements in mind, you might have five equal slices representing earth, water, fire, air and ether. Between them, they make up all that is, with nothing left out. If you have 'the trinity' in mind (whatever that means to you) you will have three equal slices, between them, once again, constituting all that is. The cake sliced into the aspects of 'physical, emotional, mental and spiritual', would give us another entire system of four slices, once again, with all included. Fundamental to the Mayan cosmological system, and therefore core to this book, is a cake sliced into 13 and another into 20. The numbers '13' and '20' hold the basis for two key macro-systems: 13 Is the system of creation - how Nature creates, and 20 is the system for the evolution of all - based on Nature's own blueprint for evolution. Put differently, one could say that '13' is the system for reduction from idea into form, and '20' for expansion, evolution or transformation of self. Each of these is introduced in the form of a build up from their respective sub-systems, into the larger systems of 13 and 20.

A friend of mine, an eminent western astrologer, once said to me: "by following western astrology along a circuitous route, one can eventually get a glimpse of the human soul, yet through Mayan cosmology, one instantly reveals the nature of the soul."

Shadow Wisdom

Many modern day spiritual texts, and some ancient one's too, refer to the "shadow aspect" of the self, as the aspect one needs to transmute and/or integrate on one's path to self-healing and self-growth. The power of this work is undeniable, yet this book has a different approach, and speaks directly to the human soul.

As the soul is perfect and whole, a cell in the 'body' of the Creator, it has no shadow. The shadow elements of one's self arise when one associates the self with the ego, and in so doing loses contact with the experience of one's Self - one's heart and soul - as the extension of the heart and soul of God. This is what the original meaning of the word 'to sin' was. It was simply, to 'miss the mark' - to be out of alignment with your magnificence and potential, your God-self. The ways in which one can miss the mark are too numerous to mention. For example, let us look at the Seal called Sun. Some of the aspects of Sun are, for example: enlightenment; light; life; fire and re-generation. The shadow opposites might be heaviness, ice, darkness, death or degeneration, and the list is almost endless. Many items in the list could be opposites of other signs too. For example, death could be the opposite of Birth which is an aspect of Dragon; Ice could be the opposite of water, an aspect of Moon, and Degeneration could be the opposite of flowering, an aspect of Seed, and so on. The shadow aspects would be more like: fear of-, or resistance to- enlightenment, fire, light, life, regeneration. In other words, feeling blocked or disconnected from the essence embodied by the sign, in this case, Sun.

Let's look at a real live example of someone 'missing the mark': The ex-husband of a close friend of mine has the Mayan sign or signature 1 Sun. Here, as you will later discover, the energy of Sun is tripled by virtue of the number or tone "1": The nature of his soul essence is Sun; the nature of what guides him is Sun; and his greater world purpose, is Sun. Yet this is a man who has utterly resisted the enlightenment process of his ex-wife, and enlightenment in his own life. What really appeals to him are war movies - movies where fire is related to destruction, heaviness, darkness and death. One could say that he is definitely living in the 'shadow aspect' of Sun, yet this is just one of an infinite number of ways of doing so, of missing the mark. It would thus be impractical, and probably unhelpful or confusing to try to list such examples.

However, if this man were to resonate with, and embrace the essence of Sun as printed on the Seal Look-up page for Sun (Book 2) or the Galactic Prosperity Declaration for 1 Sun (Book 3, Kin 40), he could immediately change his vibration and wavelength. He could rapidly move out of his 'shadow' into his light. Equally, all other fears and blockages would eventually melt away, and the opposites listed above would also cease to exist.

That is not to deny the value of working with shadow wisdom. For those who feel a strong need to do so, I suggest you read and work with the material of Carolyn Myss. She has a wonderful, intuitive process for discovering your archetypes and working through the darker side of each, to dissolve what some call the "inner gremlin". You might have an insightful experience finding the key signs within your Mayan chart, intuitively connecting those to your archetypes, and then working with the shadow of those archetypes.

I have not discounted the possible application of the cosmology as a tool for playing and working with archetypes in the future. Yet the power of this particular book lies in the Law of Attraction: "What you focus on, at every level of your being, you create and you become, and the opposites just fall away."

There are many references in this book to being a coach or a leader. Wherever this is mentioned it does not necessarily mean in respect of coaching or leading others, all though it includes this possibility. Being a coach refers most importantly to being your own coach. That is, your own observer and mentor, responsible for nurturing, facilitating and providing the best possible environment for your personal growth. Where it refers to you being a leader this means becoming a person that others would want to follow; Becoming an example, a role model, and living with integrity; Saying what you mean, and doing what you say.

The age of the Guru is over. The time is now for each of us to become masters of our own destiny. This is what the year 2013 or 20:13, is about. This road to mastery is mapped by the whole system of Mayan cosmology, with its 20 seals and 13 tones. The milestones along the path are the ones that take you to being your own best healer, teacher, leader and coach.

You might enjoy this book in terms of the systems within the cosmology. You might simply wish to use it as a glorified calendar. It may serve to give you a glimpse of your own soul or destiny. Or you may apply it as a daily living tool for shifting patterns of limitation and finding your self-mastery.

However you use it, remember it's about the journey and not the arrival. I hope and trust that you find it empowering, inspirational, and most of all, fun.

AIMS OF THE BOOK

A PRINCIPLE-BASED SPRINGBOARD

Jesus reminded us that we were "created in the image and likeness of our creator" – with the power to create. Pacal Votan gave us the codes for such creation.

We have two roles: To experience through creation, and to create through experience.

Firstly, we experience ourselves as a creator - a hologram of the Ultimate Creator - by creating, manifesting, achieving or producing.

Secondly, we re-create ourselves as the Ultimate Creator through our self-observation, our process, and our resulting experience: When we observe our process we become conscious that we are the creators of all of our experience. By owning our experiences we are free to choose new ones. Each time we succeed in this we have grown.

This second role is thus the role of being in the process of transformation, evolution, or simply, growth. The bottom line is that we here for two reasons, to create and to grow. The cycle of creation is mapped by the 13 tones, The cycle of growth by the 20 seals.

Another way to describe this is that 'God-as-creation' is a diamond of 13 facets, and 'God-as-evolution' a diamond of 20 facets. The Maya were the one race out of all the indigenous peoples of Central and South America who believed in one God. Yet they said "the one God has many facets, as experienced through the human vehicle". Each face or facet has a profound quality on its own, yet is also a step in a sequence. One sequence is of course 13 steps, and the other 20. Although there are cycles, for example, of 13 months, years and millennia, and the same with 20, the smallest complete cycle of each of these core numbers is a 13 day and a 20 day cycle. A 13 day cycle is called a Wavespell or a Wave, and a 20 day cycle is called a Vinal or a Uinal.

We take a dimensional leap here, because each facet of each 'diamond' is also a focus, a 'resonant, harmonic field', and a 'quantum field' of energy, intent, information, consciousness and possibility. Every day is a different facet, the next step in each sequence. As we are daily moving facet by facet through both sequences, we reach a point where we have visited every aspect of God-as-creation and God-as-evolution.

Every 20 days we have been through every facet of both 'diamonds' at least once. As the world turns, so the pattern unfolds in never-ending cycles. After 260 spins or days, every combination of the 13 tones and 20 seals has been visited. We have visited the 13 faceted diamond 20 times, and the 20 faceted diamond 13 times. Whereafter the 260 cycle recommences. I would guess that most people possibly visit each day as a series of events and experiences sort of 'sandwiched' between sunrise and sunset. Yet only through awareness of the specific nature and energy of 'a day' is one likely to connect with its underlying gift to humanity, its richness of essence, and its 'pregnancy of purpose'.

"The Tao

gives birth to One:

The One

gives birth to the two;

The Two

give birth to the three -

The three give birth to every living thing.

All things are held in yin and carry yang:

And they are held together in the ch'i of teeming energy."

Tao Te Ching

THE TAO OF MAYAN COSMOLGY
The 13 Tenets of 'The Way' of this journey

In her book "Hands of Light", Barbara Ann Brennan talks about the soul's choice and commitment before coming into this life. Barbara, an enlightened healer and ex-NASA scientist, confirms what the mystics of old have always known: We choose this life, with its key attributes and cornerstones, to further our evolution. We choose our parents as the particular set of mirrors required for our personal growth"; We also choose the experience and day of our birth. From a Mayan perspective we choose two portals, the first being the physical portal of our mother. Yet we also choose to enter through a profound non-physical portal, - a cosmic portal - the particular field of energy, consciousness and possibility of the day of our birth. This field informs our DNA, and our individualized consciousness. It impregnates every fibre of our being, and as mentioned above, defines at least two ways in which we interface with God: through a facet of the '13' and a facet of the '20'. It would give me great pleasure if, through decoding your day of birth, your personal aspect of 13 and 20, you find your own personal Tao or 'way' - a clear sense of purpose, meaning, and direction in your life.

The 13 steps are lunar based and are feminine or yin. The 20 are solar based and are masculine or yang. In order to better know Herself, the One Supreme Creator of all, has divided herself into two parts, feminine and masculine, god and goddess. And while they seem to be separate polarized notions or entities, they are simply two essences of the same self, two sides of the same coin, two poles of the same earth or other heavenly body. By tuning in to the Mayan calendar you will be bathing in, and fortified by both yin and yang aspects of your higher self, within a blueprint that finely balances both aspects. You will move out of a world of comparison and competition, a world of 'them and me', and a world of 'me-me-me'. Instead, you will move into an experience of the inter-connectedness of all of life. My hope is that through using this book you will be the 'golden talent' that unifies 'heads' and 'tails'. And that the talent and potential that is you, becomes brilliantly burnished gold, through embracing both your inner god and goddess.

This cosmology invokes the power of the 'Trinity' which operates at numerous levels and in countless ways. Out of this cosmology springs Dr José Argüelles' peace movement. It embraces the notion that both collective and individual peace is reached when one achieves a balance between the trinity of spirit, art and science, and an excellence in each. I like this a lot, and agree wholeheartedly. The Maya refer to God as the Huunab K'u: "The One Giver of All Movement and Measure." Here again we have the trinity: The One Giver - spirit; of All Movement - Art; and Measure - science.

This appears to be supported by quantum mechanics. This new physics tells us that the nature of the universe is energy, and that energy is composed of a consciousness of love; creative impulse; and empirical observation and measure - spirit, art and science.

The trinity can also be defined as BE, DO and Have. 'BE-ing' is the innate spirit that animates and connects all of life and consciousness. 'DO-ing' is the art that arises when you are BE-ing in action. 'Having' is what results from your doing. Results are measurable and relate to the science aspect of the trinity.

In my view, this trinity is implicit, yet not explicit, in an aspect of Dreamspell, one of José Argüelles's wondrous gifts to humanity...

José produced the inspired Dreamspell referred to in the preface. Without Dream-spell, this book, and my work, play and research with the cosmology over the last 13 years would have been impossible. Within the kit is the Book of Kin containing the 260 'commands' or 'mantras'. These are beautiful and empowering for many.

Yet to my mind the syntax is based on doing rather than being. For example, "I pulse in order to create…" My guidance was to introduce the notion of being as the foundation stone for each command. In this book the commands are considerably different. Yet for me the key difference is that each one now starts, "I am…", thereby invoking our being and essence, and as the bible tells us, is the name of God. For example "I am creative, persistent and passionate…". This then has a resultant doing, for example, "…I engage spirit…", culminating in a having, "…in order to manifest…". These have now been called the 260 Declarations. They are not intended in any way to diminish or override José's commands. I would rather suggest that these run alongside them, to add a different "vista" to your experience. I hope and trust that you will find these empowering and inspiring, particularly your own personal declaration - your Mayan-galactic signature. I trust they will facilitate greater access to your higher self, and lead to ever more wondrous ways of being. Through tuning in daily to these realms of creation, many have experienced enhanced creativity, intuition, clairvoyance and telepathy. It is my intention that by starting each declaration with the words "I am" you directly invoke God, to guide you, bring more love into your life, empower your creations and enhance your spiritual journey.

'Be-do-have' is core to the affirmations on of each of the 33 seal and tone 'Declaration Pages' - the 13 tone and 20 seal pages. These are expanded on each page as a paragraph on a stone tablet. This is communicated in such a way as to open up possible interpretation and ways of accessing and using the message. It has not been pinned down by fixed definition. It relates to your soul or higher self and therefore cannot be weighed down in advice or description of character or personality. Although people often want to be told how they should be or act in order to fit into a predetermined set of guidelines, this is not the intention of this book.

The intention is to give you 'a track to run on' that will best serve you in all areas of your life and to provide the context for, and access to, your own inner resources. This provides you with a 'full cup' in life, given the date you chose to be born on, your Mayan-galactic signature. The paragraph is based directly on the syntax, which is rooted in the mathematics of the cosmology. As the reader, cosmologist or life coach interpreting this resource, you are given the 'alphabet' of this 'language of light'. It is then up to you to write this language into your 'own poetry', 'prose', teaching, or healing modality, as you apply it to yourself, the day you are looking up, or for life-guidance to your subject or client.

Inherent in the cosmology is universal law. Universal laws are laws that govern our experience, based on our thoughts and our action. Like the law of gravity, they operate whether we agree with them or not, and whether we are conscious or unconscious of their action. Associated with the core numerology and geometry of each of the 33 Mayan facets or 'units' is a Universal Law. For example, a three-dimensional pyramid has five points and five sides, and so does the traditional castle, as seen above, echoed by the Pentagon building itself. These structures in different ways both relate to power. Both the 5th Tone and the 5th seal deal with accessing inner power, and have a law relating to this. The Mayan universal laws will be covered in future books. Suffice to say that the law for each tone and seal is implicit in the wording of its declaration. Also, the BE-DO-HAVE structure of each declaration directly accesses the law of all laws relating to human exisrence - the Law of Attraction. This law is subject to an even greater, all-encompassing universal law, the Law of Cause and Effect. Through the invocation of Universal Law for the greater good of yourself and everyone around you, life becomes a series of miracles. It is my sincere wish that by accessing these laws through the daily declarations, your life will reach new magical and miraculous heights.

The 'BE-DO-HAVE' aspect came about as a direct answer to a two-fold prayer. My request of the universe was firstly to provide me with guidance for a teaching tool and methodology that would keep the cosmology practical while maintaining its sacredness. The second request was to provide me with a format for Mayan Cosmology with an easy-to-teach, easy-to-learn and easy-to-access tool…

The structure of BE-DO-HAVE has played a large role in answering the first plea. What was a complete surprise to me was that it formed part of the answer to my second request. In wondering how I could describe the five-step sub-process within the 20 seals, as staging points in a process of self-mastery, I received a vision. I saw two triangles approaching each other, and then moving through each other. Of course BE-DO-HAVE is a triangle, and what I now realized was that I had a 5-step sequence of the movement of two 'BE-DO-HAVE triangles' colliding and forming a geometric relationship with each other. This became the seed of a complete new set of seals, as described later in the book. It is up to you as to whether you wish to use the original Mayan day glyphs, José Argüelles' Dreamspell seals, or the seals that came in answer to my prayer - Whichever glyphs speak to you. All three are listed at the end of this book, and again at the start of Book 2. What was really exciting for me was that I had happened upon a new set of symbols that performed three very clear and important functions: They geometrically embody the trinity, as is shown in the Chapter: THE 20 SEALS OF PERSONAL GROWTH, under Self-Mastery through Experience. They communicate the 'soul' of each seal; And they encapsulate the process of moving through two core sub-cycles within the sequence of 20: - the 4-step cycle of transformation or paradigm shift; and the 5-phase cycle of self-mastery, culture change or attitude change.

There is much about the cosmology that I have not included in this book and that will have to be covered in sequels to this one. What I have attempted to do is provide you with what I regard as the most life-empowering and life-enhancing basics that could comfortably fit between two covers. I hope you will be enriched by this set of life tools, and then deepen the knowledge and 'sharpen your tools' through the books and products to come.

There are numerous spiritual books, including those relating to Mayan Cosmology, which provide affirmations that are uplifting and inspiring. If that's all that is achieved though, it's not much more than a temporary high. My hope is that this book takes this to another level in two ways. Firstly, by re-informing the DNA, as the affirmations align with both galactic and cellular evolutionary paths. Secondly by evoking a course of action as a result of the upliftment and inspiration. Clearly, we are dealing with and tuning into the consciousness of creation and evolution itself. The Mayan codes provide a forum for direct access to the mind of God, yet in a way that is filled with a richness of experience that can be tapped by all levels of our being. It has been my strong intention over the last 13 years to present the codes in a way that maintains this fullness and sacredness, yet that points to a wholly practical application. This way of consciously and practically tuning in to the cosmic order, will facilitate a natural order and balance in your life – A balance between work and play, giving and receiving, and driving forward your own self-actualization, while allowing the universe to know herself through you.

We have been told so many times in so many ways that life, healing, wholeness, happiness and joy only take place in the NOW…

The Mayan Calendar is a cosmology or science of 'Time', defined by Einstein as the 4th dimension. To avoid being bogged down in what this might mean, I prefer to regard it as the art and science of 'timing' or synchronicity: being at the 'right' time and place for 'right action'. This can only take place in the present moment of NOW. It is only the mind or ego self that strays into the past and future. Through being centered in 'being', the daily declarations in this book bring one even more powerfully and tangibly into the present place and moment – the here and now.

Some start each day attuning with the daily energy as a way of synchronizing their own day with the greater flow. Others prefer to refer to the essence of the day at the close of each day, and to marvel at how in tune the day's events actually were, with the greater order. Yet others may use the calendar to earmark important meetings or events that are most likely to be supported by the daily energies. Whatever way works best for you is perfect.

The Mayan calendar is truly holistic or holonomic, meaning it is based on whole systems. The Tzolkin template on which it is based is possibly a galactic template including all other systems. As mentioned above, it is a complete code of creation or goal achievement, and one of personal growth on which life coaching may be based; It embraces the entire genetic code in the form of the I Ching of ancient China; the 52 key acupressure points; the musical scale; the primary colours and other systems too numerous to mention here. It would give me tremendous pleasure to discover that you, the reader, have found a way to apply this cosmology to round and deepen your approach to your vocation, practice, or whatever it is that gives you purpose and pleasure in life.

I mentioned that the syntax of each of the 13 and 20 core affirmations that make up the 260 daily declarations is in the order of 'Be' first, then 'Do' then 'Have'. It is my sincere wish that the power of words through the daily commands will evoke action that is worthy of who you truly are - and will become; Action arising from a 'Be' that is truly inspiring – A 'be-ingness' that is in accord with your grandest vision and greatest potential. A Course in Miracles states: "ideas leave not their source". That is, the attitude, the way of being that inspires a course of action, will colour and shape that course, and ultimately the result. It is my intention that your results be gloriously bathed in the sweetest hues of your becoming – your true colours.

The level of our being that is connected to all - our God-self - is Perfect. We do not need to strive for perfection in life, just simply to recognize and remember that it is who we are. With the memory of our innate perfection, what we can strive for is excellence. Or as Conversations with God puts it: "being the greatest version of the grandest vision of who we can become." Striving for perfection is exhausting because it leaves no room for error. It causes us to die inside, because it disconnects us from our Source. It denies that perfection is who we already are - the God within us. Striving for excellence allows us to make 'mistakes' because everything in life is part of our learning and growth. For example, a singer may trip over an electric cable on her way to centre stage. If she is aiming for perfection she might want the ground to swallow her up; She might be angry that the countless hours of practice have been wasted; She might anticipate that this is a sign that "all will go down hill from here" – and it probably will. Her evening will have been destroyed before it started. Yet if she is aiming for excellence, she might make a joke of it. She might fake another fall or two before arriving centre stage. Because of her high self-esteem, the acceptance of her innate perfection, the event cannot derail her in any way. The search for excellence allows her to be human and in so doing endears her to her audience. If anything, her evening is enhanced by the 'error' and ends up a roaring success. The syntax of the declarations is designed to re-awaken the memory of your INHERENT perfection, while re-igniting and empowering your search for excellence.

One of the greatest secrets to success is "to have 100% intention and 0% attachment". That means not being attached to your goals and dreams. It also means not being attached to reciting a particular, fixed affirmation or mantra in life, as there can never be freedom in dependence. Having a declaration that changes each day for 260 days removes this 'sameness'. As this synchronizes with the Sun's own cycle, an intention of cosmic proportion is holographically imprinting itself upon your consciousness and DNA. Yet even this calendar is just a tool, and the purpose of all tools is to empower and assist you to a place where the tool is no longer required.

In his book the Isaiah Effect, Gregg Braden describes two experiences as direct personal evidence to support the power of what he calls "the Isaiah Effect". In each case, several people are involved, all having a joint vision or focus, with strong intention. On both occasions something 'miraculous' happens, which can now be explained by Quantum Physics, but could not be explained by the old science. In the first, a journey that takes 7 hours, took only 4, defying what is possible in 'the old physics. In the second, a cancerous bladder tumour disappears from a woman's body without even leaving scar tissue: In 2 minutes and 40 seconds an event inexplicable by orthodox medicine takes place.

The film "What the bleep do we know" cites an experiment in which 4,000 people from 100 countries meditated in Washington DC, the 'crime capital' of the world. They said that they intended to reduce crime by 25% that summer. The chief of police was reported to have said it would take two feet of snow to achieve that, that summer. Yet the experiment achieved its aim of reducing crime by 25%. The film goes on to tell us that the result was completely predictable, based on 48 similar experiments on a smaller scale. Being experiment number 49 it also synchronized numerically with the Buddhist number of 'The Bardot' – the 49 days they say the soul takes after death before committing to the next level of being. It could be described as a number that underlies consciousness-shift. When individual or collective action is synchronized with the days and or the numbers underlying 'universal timing', those actions are very much more powerful. This too is what the Mayan Calendar is about. I had the privelege of being present in Chile in 1999 when José Argüelles ran a seminar for collective consciousness shift. It lasted exactly 49 days. This is also 7 times 7, with 7 being a number of profound significance in the Judeo-Christian texts, as well as in Hindu, Mayan, and other mysticism.

In his book, Gregg Braden also refers to the global prayer for peace in 1998. At precisely the same time as the collective prayer, a major bombing raid over Iraq which had just been given the go ahead, was recalled. The greatest vision I have for this book is that it contributes to a better world through what Gregg Braden calls "The Isaiah effect." It has also been known as "critical mass", "the hundredth monkey effect" and "morphic resonance".

THE ISAIAH EFFECT

by Gregg Braden

"Clearly, we are entering a new era of understanding the inner sciences of prayer, prophecy, and the agents of change that Isaiah and others acknowledged in their writings. Deceptively simple, Isaiah's prophecies remind us of two things. First, through the science of prophecy we may glimpse future consequences of choices made in the present. Second, we may embody the collective power to choose which future we experience. It is through our consideration of others in our daily lives that we piece together the experiences that bring our futures into focus. This is the Isaiah Effect – the expression of an ancient science stating that we may change the outcome of our future through the choices that we make in each moment of the present.

Quantum physics now gives us the language to give this sophisticated technology meaning in our daily lives. In doing so, we empower our families, our communities, and those that we hold dear with the simple and effective message of honouring all life in our world. Through our choice of peace in our lives, we ensure the survival of our species and the future of the only home we know. We have already witnessed the power of the Isaiah effect. We know that it works. Now the question becomes: How do we implement this quantum principle of choice in our daily lives as a global family?"

With the onset of 2012/2013, the numerous predictions, and the tremendous decoding of the Mayan codes by José Argüelles, literally hundreds of thousands – maybe millions – of people are now tuning in to the same daily energy and consciousness. What a vehicle for change we have in prospect!

As Deepak Chopra puts it, we live in "a river of energy and information." This eternal flow of abundance is accessible to us at any time we choose. When we worship that abundance, be it in the form of money, sex, or fame, it is devalued, and decreases. When we celebrate it, it becomes sacred and expands to fill our lives and our world. By celebrating our abundant universe individually, while at the same time connecting to countless other beings in celebration across the globe, we prepare ourselves for what Barbara Hand Clow, in The Plaeiadian Agenda calls "The Cosmic Party" on the winter solstice of 2012.

It is my intention that by giving people the most powerful focus or affirmation possible every day, we will be creating a new 'quantum level' paradigm shift; that we will be able to invoke something truly remarkable and re-create our world: healed and whole in its rightful place amongst the stars - a new heaven on earth.

"We come spinning out of nothingness gathering stars, like dust"
Rumi

"Holy Mother, Truth: all matter is her body, the Earth is her eye.
Holy Father, Love: the stars are his flesh, Spirit is his I.
Two Lovers, two friends, intelligent partners…
Between them, the universe lives suspended.
Through them, all things are created and maintained...
...Then the idea came.
The idea. Something between spirit and stone, between starlight and stardust, a slow form of combustion, fluid flowing structure, blending the natures of us both.
Spirit in durable form. Matter inspired. The idea."
Ken Carey, Vision

A MARRIAGE MADE IN HEAVEN

260 'Heavenly Kisses'

In Mayan Cosmology, each day is a new event played out in a cosmic dance or play of love, filled with consciousness, energy, texture, meaning and opportunity. As the Earth turns on its axis, each new midnight brings us the dawning of a new field of possibility and purpose.

From a perspective of the basic cosmology, this cosmic love-play, arises out of God's drive to experience herself, which can only happen in the presence of relationship. And so it is as if God divided herself into two parts, inclinations, and forces: feminine and masculine; yin and yang; negative and positive.

Each day arises out of a connection between a masculine and a feminine force. From a 'graphic' point of view, it's as if two huge cogs, one of each gender, are suspended in our immediate heavens, and are rotating through each other. The one is lunar, yin, or feminine in essence. The other is solar, yang or masculine. The lunar-based cog-wheel has 13 teeth, and carries the essence of the 13 tones or phases of creation.

This is feminine as creation draws from the future in to the present. The moment we have a goal or vision it then exists, but only in the 'future'. Creation brings this forward into the present. Creation also reduces an idea - an expanded thought form - into a denser physical result. True co-creation occurs by allowing God to create through us. This also allows her to have a 'grounding' or earthy experience. Here relationship comes into play: Against the backdrop of earthliness can she most powerfully experience her heavenliness. And so this cycle is complete.

Cogwheels of 20 seals & 13 Tones of galactic time

The other cog is larger, with 20 teeth, and carries the essence of the 20 phases of evolution or transformation. This may be seen as the solar or masculine face of God. This is somewhat the opposite direction to creation. Here our experience of ourselves evolves from our current reality within its relative 'density', into a more refined and enlightened experience of self.

As the large wheel turns 13 times, the smaller one rotates 20 times, providing 260 permutations or 'heavenly kisses'. In a cycle of 260 days, there are 260 entirely different tone/seal, yin/yang, god/goddess connections, in this perfectly balanced galactic dance of love.

These set the feel and purpose of each day, and centre it in the human heart and soul.

The 260 cycle is also known as the Sacred Cycle or Calendar, or the "Loom of the Maya", and is mapped upon a multifunctional template called the Tzolkin, Book 2, Table 13. For a glimpse at the bigger picture though, one could see two much larger cogs out there, The Tzolkin, and the solar year: one of 260 days and one of 365 days. These also cycle through each other, re-synchronizing every 52 years. This is why 52 years, is the age at which one becomes an elder in Mayan society. In 52 years of life, or 73 Tzolkin rotations, every tooth of the larger cog will have connected with every tooth of the smaller. For this, and for many other reasons, 52 is regarded as an extremely sacred and important number. It also goes into 260 exactly 5 times, and 7 times into 364.

SACRED CYCLE OF 260

In the case of these larger cogs, the 260 cycle becomes masculine relative to the larger one which is lunar based and feminine. This book will deal largely with the Tzolkin of 260, rather than the latter.

260 Days happens to be the smallest complete cycle of our sun: Being gaseous, the sun has two axes of rotation, one polar and one equatorial. These synchronize every 260 days. Even more interesting is that '260' also marks the cycle of human gestation, from conception to birth. Birth is the perfection and resolution of the yin-yang polarity. It is also both the perfect cycle of yin creation - from idea or conception into form, and yang evolution - from seed to fruit!

In the introduction we covered the soul's choice of the day of birth for its next evolutionary phase. Here the soul chooses two portals, the portal of the mother or of space, and the cosmically synchronized portal of time. In this sense, birth can be said to be not just of the physical wedlock of our parents, but of a 'marriage made in heaven', an engagement between heavenly bodies ; a rendezvous where god and goddess meet; a playground of love, created by God in order to better know herself.

Time is not linear. Viewed from a Mayan-galactic standpoint, it is closely linked to spirit itself. The human brain has had difficulty understanding the nature of 'change', We thus related it to space, and called it time. Yet change has nothing to do with 'linear time'. Quantum physics is now here to prove this. There is a saying that "there is no thing so great as an idea whose time has come." Why!?...

Possibly because this is the marriage of yang and yin. The idea or concept is like the yang sperm, and the time that has come - the event horizon - is the fertile yin ovum of promise and commitment.

The Mayan calendar is the mapping of event horizons, the galactic time-keeper of 'ripe moments'. When we attune with these greater cosmic frequencies, we synchronize with the 'quantum field' - a field of consciousness in which 'quantum leaps' become a natural part of daily living.

THE MAYAN CALENDAR & FERTILITY
The womb of creation

In his book The Supergods, Maurice Cotterell eloquently expounds on the link between sun spot cycles of thousands of years of evolutionary time, and fertility. Yet we can see even from this very much shorter solar cycle of 260 days, that there are powerful connections between the sun and fertility, conception, gestation and birth...

The 20th Mayan seal is called Ahau or 'Sun, and amongst other things means womb, matrix and giver of life. It is fascinating then, that around the 20th day after menstruation, women are most fertile, and conception is most likely to take place. So birth normally takes place 260 days after conception, and 280 days after the last menstruation. The latter is how the medical profession measures gestation, because sexually active women are more likely to know this date, than the date of conception. But in my direct experience, doctors are incorrect to label 280 days as the actual gestation period. There was no doubt about the date of conception of my daughter Soraya. Emma and I were trying for a child. The month before, Emma had had a very heavy period – Emma was absolutely clear it was an early miscarriage. About 20 days later we began trying again for a child. 3 days thereafter Emma was ill in the stomach - something that never happens to her. 259 days later Soraya was induced a day early!

We've seen that 13 Is the cycle of creation and 20 the cycle of transformation. 260, their multiple, should therefore be the most perfect marriage between creation and transformation possible. And it is! For what personifies creation better than such movement from concept or conception to realization or birth? And what better exemplifies transformation than the change from ovum to new born babe?

So this magical 260 days is the first cycle each of us ever lives. This is our 'galactic pattern' as intrinsic to us as our genetic pattern. It is so inherent and significant a period, that it preceeds our very first cycle of 365 - our first year of life. And in cases where gestation turns out to be exactly 260 days, then the galactic signature - the seal and tone - of the day of birth, will be precisely the same as the galactic signature of the day of conception!260 is therefore a code that is inherently part of our DNA, our personal evolutionary or growth path, and yet aligns us with the greater galactic evolutionary pattern.

As a core galactic code, the Sacred Cycle of 260 is also the basis or template for all of the other 19 Mayan calendars. Of those, there is one other that equals the 260 cycle in its significance to humanity: The 13 Moon Calendar. In his thesis 13 Moons in Motion, Arguelles explains how the average lunar cycle is 28 days. This is equal to the average female ovulation cycle, the cycle of ´birth or creation - in potential´. Arguelles goes on to comment on how in our supposedly scientific and advanced age, our weeks don't fit into our months. And yet in the 13 Moon Calendar of the Mayan Jaguar Priesthood - the Chilam Balam - the 7 day weeks fit perfectly into the 28 day months. and 28 goes exactly 13 times, into the 365 day year, with one day over called the 'Day Out of Time'.

The Flower of Life

The 13 Moon Calendar is mathematically, artistically, and philosophically perfect. With 7-day weeks fitting into 13 perfect months we also have perfect sacred geometry, with '7' - the Seed of Life, fitting into '13' - the fruit of life (where else would one find a seed!?). Only the human ego could defile such cosmic poetry in motion. Only the human mind could force such a round peg into such a square hole!

MAYAN COSMOLOGY & SACRED GEOMETRY
Codes of Creation

As we learn more and more about the nature of reality, we discover that Newtonian physics and the old sciences are no longer reliable measures for what is true and real. We also discover that the ancient studies taught in the mystery schools of Egypt, Tibet, the Maya lands and elsewhere, resonate far more accurately with the findings of the New physics.

Quantum physics confirms that atoms constitute everything, and that they are made of pure energy. It then departs from received wisdom by telling us that when you are looking, these atoms are particle in nature, but when you're not looking they are wave-like!

If our 'looking' does not give us an accurate picture, we need to move into other tests for truth and reality, like intuition, trust and synchronicity. If something feels right to us, it probably is! If that is then coupled with a recurring theme, message, or appearance in our lives, we then have personal confirmation.

Until Quantum Physics becomes more accessible as a means to verify mystical events and phenomena, we have little choice but to go with our trust and inner knowing, supported by the timeless wisdom of the mystics.

Synchronistically, and excitingly, we have modern day mystics, visionaries and prophets alive today, here to refine, integrate and translate this cosmic knowledge for us!

Drunvalo Melchizedek is one such being. In his books The Ancient Flower of Life, he shares his wisdom and wizardry simply and with humility. He shows how certain number systems and patterns have recurred throughout time, giving us pointers as to the nature of life, growth and creation. Through Sacred Geometry, those number patterns create forms and sequences in space. The most critical and sacred of all of these numbers, are the same as for Mayan Cosmology - the keeper of patterns in Time. Those numbers are 7 - the seed of Life, 22 - the tree of life, 13 - The fruit of life, and 20 - the flower of life. I will deal with 7 and 22 in future publications, as these are in themselves the basis for vast study.

For now, let's look at '20' as the Flower of Life and '13' as the Fruit of Life.

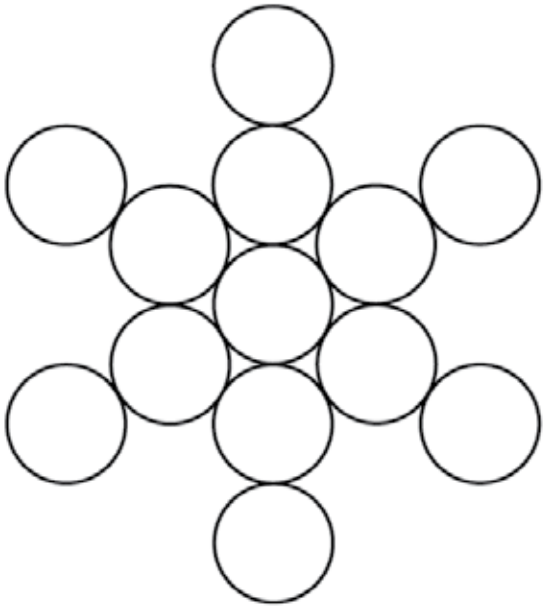

IMAGE 6
The Fruit of Life

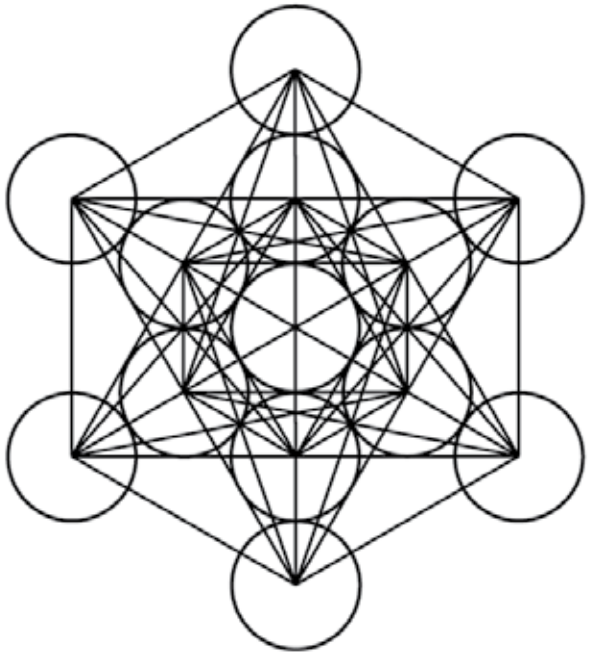

IMAGE 7
Metatron's Cube

THE FLOWER OF LIFE

It is no surprise that '20' relates to the Flower of Life. Flowers have no other course of action but to unfold into their divine potential. Drunvalo shows us how the sacred geometry of the Flower of Life, depicts the genesis pattern through which all of sentient life unfolds and grows.

And the 20 phase Mayan cycle is exactly that - the process of unfoldment or growth.

The Flower of Life formation, Image 5, constitutes 19 interwoven circles, surrounded by one large circle, sometimes depicted with a double line. Interestingly, The 20 Mayan seals are also referred to as the "0-19 Code". In this case, the 20th seal called Sun, takes on the numeric value of '0' and is represented by the outer circle. '20' relates to everything, and '0' to nothing. This aligns wholly with the Divine Dichotomy of the Zen notion of "everything and nothing". Only in the nothingness, is everything possible.

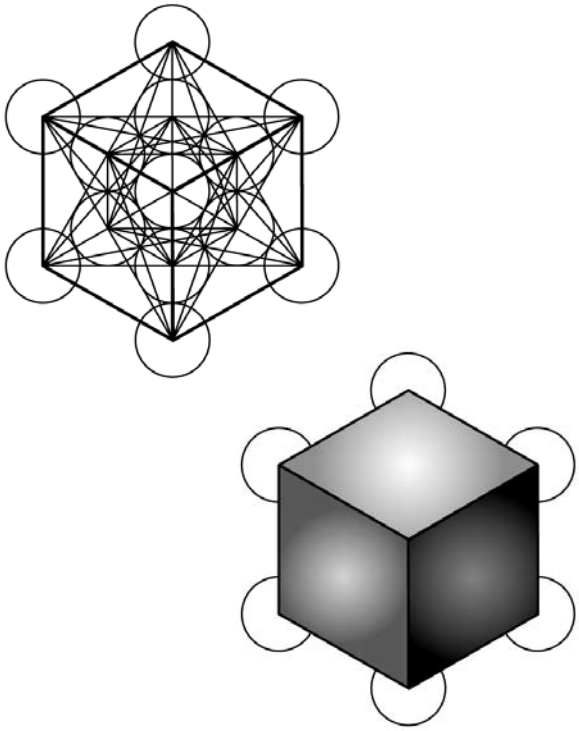

IMAGE 8
The Cube

THE FRUIT OF LIFE

13 circles in a particular geometric pattern, form what's called Metatron's cube Image 6, or the fruit of Life Image 7. Drunvalo explains that by linking the centres of all of the circles with straight lines, one begins to delineate five fundamental geometric shapes. These are as follows: The Cube Image 8, The Star tetrahedron Image 9, The Octahedron Image 10, the icosohedron Image 11, and the dodecahedron Image 12.

These five shapes are the shapes of the 5 Platonic Solids, and can only be formed if each of the 13 circles is present. The Platonic Solids hold the shapes of the bonding patterns for the structures of ALL organic life, and therefore, of creation.

Again, it is no surprise at all that the geometry of 13 creates the 'Fruit' of life.

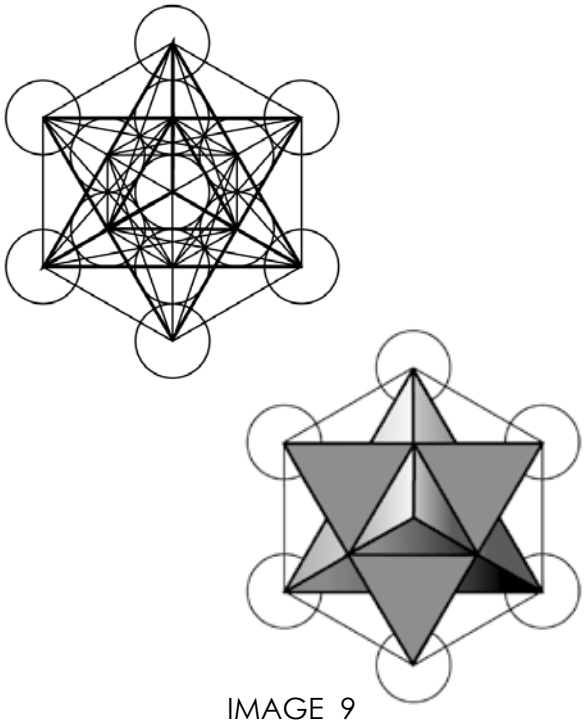

IMAGE 9
Star Tetrahedron

The sequence or cycle of creation can also be called the 13 steps to setting and achieving goals. And of course, once you have achieved your goal, your vision or intention has borne fruit!

MAYAN COSMOLOGY AND THE LAW OF ATTRACTION

"You attract what you think about, and you also become what you think about"
James Ray, The Secret

There are laws of life, just as there are laws of physics. It does not matter whether you are aware of these laws or not, they function every time, without fail. If you jump off a building you will accelerate downwards until you hit the ground - the Law of Gravity works, regardless of your opinion about it. It does not make value judgments. It treats everyone and everything equally. It operates regardless of whether you think that you are good or bad, rich or poor, right or wrong, optimistic or pessimistic. It's the same with all other laws, including the Law of Attraction, which is part of a more universal law, The Law of Cause and Effect.

At the core of all activity, animate or inanimate, human or otherwise, is law. In the original Aramaic version of the bible, 'lord' meant law. "The Lord" meant the THE LAW - the collective of all Universal Laws; and The Maker and Upholder of all laws.

The Mayan word for God is Hunab K'u meaning "the One Giver of all movement and measure". It is the highest aspect of ourselves which, having been in action or movement, can then stand back and observe the outcome, the measure. To

Octahedron

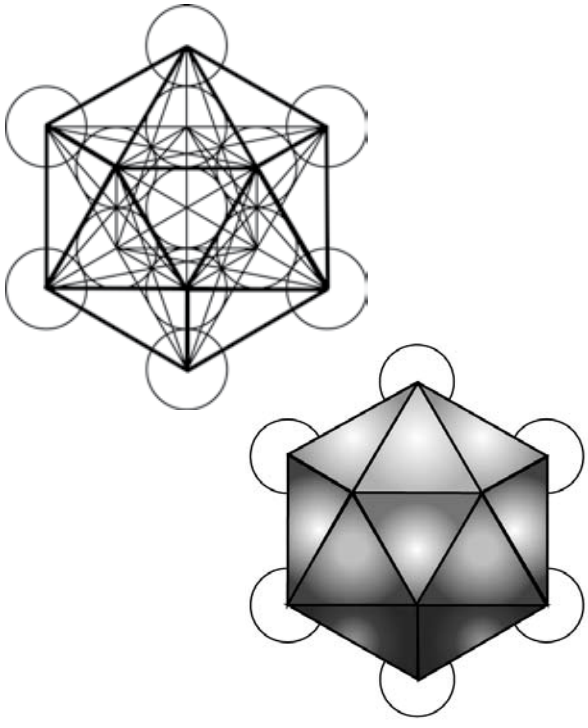

IMAGE 11
Icosohedron

invoke the Hunab K'u then, is to invoke the Law of Cause and Effect. This states that for every cause there is an effect or outcome, and for every outcome or resulting experience in life, there is a generating cause. All laws fall under this one, great law. It has been called the "The Law of Laws". Interestingly, the Hebrews refer to God as "the Lord of Lords", meaning the same thing.

God is The Law. The Law makes no judgment. Therefore God makes no judgment.

Yet we were given free will. In every moment we have an opportunity to choose a new action or reaction. In the eyes of The Law there is no right or wrong, good or bad. Simply consequences.

Based on conscious thought and the engaging of free will - both uniquely human activities - is a uniquely human law: The LAW OF ATTRACTION. It is subject to the LAW OF CAUSE AND EFFECT yet is probably the most powerful law governing human behaviour. It states that whatever you think about with focused intent, you either attract, or you become – you create, or you grow into. The notion was mentioned in the introduction that these are the two purposes for our existence: to create and to grow; To experience ourselves in two ways - as: God-as-creation, and God-as-growth.

The 13 Tones of co-Creation and the 20 Seals of Self-Growth thus directly engage the THE LAW OF ATTRACTION.

13 & 20 REFLECTED IN OUR BODIES

We have already looked at how the cosmology is encoded into the human DNA, with both the cycle of ovulation and gestation synchronizing with the galactic code.

Yet the 13 and 20 take on an even more physical form in our bodies. There are exactly 13 major joints in the body: Two ankles, knees, hips, wrists, elbows, shoulders and the neck.

it is appropriate that the 13 joints signify flexibilty and action, as these are two dynamics closely related to creation.

Equally, it is appropriate that we have 20 digits, 10 fingers and 10 toes. Each hand and foot relates to an ancient 5-level chakra system, where the thumb or big toe relates to the crown, and the baby digit, the root.

If one forays into Ayurvedic Medicine or Polarity Therapy, the digits each relate to an element, from earth to ether. Jin Shin J'yutsu, another healing art, relates each digit to a dimension. In all cases, the digits relate much more to our being than our doing. It is fitting therefore, that the 20 digits relate to the 20 phases of evolution - of being and becoming.

13 & 20 OF SOUND AND COLOUR

In José Argüelles' Dreamspell Kit referred to in the preface, the 20 seals are depicted as 5 harmonics, each harmonic being a run of four different coloured seals.

Those seals always run through the colour cycle depicted in the Chapter called The Medicine Wheel. Jose's harmonic cycle is depicted in Image 53 as the Dreamspell Cycle, running through red, white, blue and yellow. A Harmonic Run, then, is a cycle through the three primary colours that make up all colour, and white, which is all colour.

Johan Sebastian Bach created was has come to be known as the Pythagorean scale. The idea was to find a blueprint in which all audible sound could be represented using the tones and semi-tones of the musical octave.

The 13 Mayan-Galactic Tones overlay with the tones and semi-tones of the octave. If 'C' is tone '1', then tone 13 is 'C' of the next octave.

In the late 1990s I received guidance to run an art and sound 'playshop' in which people would experience the 13 phases of co-creatorship. The programme required sound that would resonate with each of the 13 steps, in order to inform the senses more powerfully. I wanted, natural, 'indigenous' sound with pure harmonics, so I approached my brother and sister-in-law, directors of the Association of Sound Therapy in Spain. Nestor and Michele produced what they called The Harmonic Octave CD which was perfect for the playshop, and has contributed to it being a truly transformative programme. They created the CD by following and focusing on the 13 tones of creative action covered later in the book, So while being a professional project, the making of the CD was also an 'experiment in co-creation'. It's not surprising to me that when I listen to the sound for tone 10 - the tone of manifestation - that there is no doubt in my mind it was divinely inspired.

It also does not surprise me that this has gone on to become by far the best-selling CD they have ever produced.

BE-DO-HAVE
CAUSE AND EFFECT

Cause and Effect is the primary Universal Law on which all other universal laws are based. For every effect or result in your life there is a cause, and for every cause there is an effect. Whenever you experience a result you don't want, it would serve you to change the cause - the way of being that generated it. Your way of Being underlies your way of Doing and ultimately your Having.

So critical are these three words to the living of life, that if you wish to learn a new language quickly, learn them first, and you'll go a long way!

The general human drive to do things and to have things in order to be happy is a reversal of the primary Universal Law, which cannot be bent or broken: Be happy, joyous, contented first, and then your doings and havings - your actions and results - will be happy, joyous, contented ones.

THE LAW OF ATTRACTION is the Law of Cause and Effect as it relates to human experience. It tells you that the subconscious mind will act upon your core way of being - your dominant or sponsoring thought, often backed up by emotion - which is 'attitude' or cause. The cause-effect relationship is clearly apparent when you consciously intend an outcome, and that outcome occurs. You know your intention was strong enough, backed up by 'right action'. If it does not happen, you can usually assume that your way of being, or intention, was not strong or clear enough to start with. What is a little less obvious is the cause-effect relationship when events seemingly 'pop out of the blue, uninvited'. It is a little harder to

BE phase

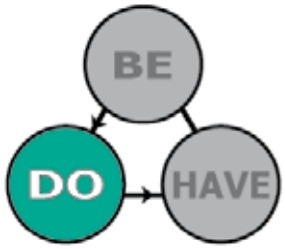

IMAGE 14
Be-Do-Have Cycle
DO phase

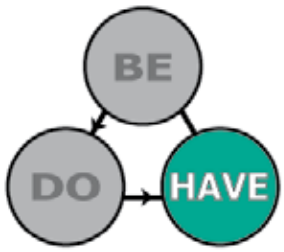

IMAGE 15
Be-Do-Have Cycle
HAVE phase

accept that at some level you intended the outcome! Yet as you observe yourself you come to recognize that there are times when part of you states your aim, and yet another part, known by some as the inner 'gremlin' gives a conflicting command to your subconscious mind. If that is the clearer or accompanied by a more powerful underlying emotion, it will be your sponsoring thought, or cause, that will manifest in an effect that is like itself. The key to knowing which is your sponsoring thought is awareness - and the commitment to your growth through self-observation.

I once attended a life-changing transformational programme called The Outlook Training (London), I learned a wonderful four step process for making changes when I wished to create different results from the ones I was experiencing:

"STOP - LOOK - CORRECT - TAKE ACTION"

The beauty of this is that it completes the cycle through the triangle. STOP almost suggests that we centre ourselves and take a deep breath. LOOK means looking without filters of attachment or judgment at those results. This way we might ascertain what our previous, dominant way of being was, so that we can then CORRECT. This of course means choosing a new way of being - one that will serve us this time round. The ACTION we then take will be governed by our new dominant way of being, and create results that are like itself - according to universal law.

When we exercise self-respect and self-tolerance, we can continue this exercise as many times around as required, until we achieve the results we are after.

Life becomes far more empowered and stress-free - a path of 'spiritual practicality':

- We find ourselves living consciously
- We experience ourselves as the master of our world
- We literally and practically recognize that there are no mistakes - only consequences, and new opportunities to learn and grow.

Because of the power of the Law of Cause & Effect, or Being-Doing-Having, every affirmation and declaration in this book is constructed in three parts: The cause of the action - the BEING; followed by the central action part - the DOING; and finally the outcome, effect, or result - the HAVING part.

These have been represented as a triangle of three circles, "BE", "DO", "HAVE". Whichever one is being related to at a particular time, is highlighted as a green light, see Images 13, 14 and 15.

"At the interface between my eternal unity and Creation's diversity, I have created human beings to be the BRIDGE, the CONNECTING LINK between my universality and my universe, between myself and creation...The human species is the physical flesh in whom I incarnate, with whom I shall travel, and through whom I shall create..."

Ken Carey, Vision (a personal call to create a new world)

13 TONES OF CREATIVE ACTION

Most pre-Babylonian cultures of the world recognized the power of 13, and embraced a calendar of 13 moons. These were largely sidelined by the Babylonian calendar of 12 months which eventually petrified in the form of the Gregorian calendar that the world follows today.

The Chilam Balam priesthood of the Maya followed a calendar based on 13 precise months of 28 days each. This is the cycle of Mother Earth, the Goddess cycle of Gaia, and is echoed in the ovulation cycle of the goddesses amongst us - our mothers, wives and daughters. For humanity, ovulation is possibly the most powerful aspect of creation in potential.

'13' can thus be seen to represent the Goddess within each of us, and the creative power of the universe at our disposal. We saw in the previous chapter how the pure number '13' is a prime number creating the source geometric pattern from which the geometric structure of all of life is derived.

The number 13 thus represents creation at the level of structure and it's progressive cyclical, rhythmic nature. The Mayan name for God or Galactic Source is Hunab K'u, literally meaning "The one giver of all movement and measure".

The Ancient Tzolkin, the base template of all Mayan Calendars, embraces a 13 tone cycle, or sequence of 13 days. This runs in tandum with the 20 day cycle of Seals covered in the next sections. Each phase of the cycle of 13 (be it 13 days or months) has a focus for creative action. Each of us was born on a day that was part of a 13 Tone cycle. To find out what which Tone you 'landed' on as you entered this journey of life, look up the ephemeris at the back of book 2.

The Tone meanings I have worked with over the last 13 years have evolved to the current interpretations that constitute the Galactic Prosperity Declarations in book 3. These took a quantum leap in 1995 when I joined forces with Sangeeta Mayne, a friend who had already experienced years of success in bringing spiritual transformation to the corporate world. I had strongly suspected that the Mayan Tzolkin provided a template for personal manifestation and tranformation. As a result, Sangeeta and I ran a series of three courses called Mastery Out of Time. As most education and literature on Mayan Cosmology had revolved around the colourful seals, we chose to focus on the 13 Tones as a template for manifesting and creating the life you choose.

The current tone definitions build on the Mastery Out of Time tones, which I represent with the logo we used at the time:

IMAGE 16
Mastery Out of Time logo

Development of the 13 Tone Definitions

I start with the 'doing' form of each tone, as this is the form that we can most relate to, and then bring in the 'being' and 'having' - the cause and effect, afterwards. The 'doing' statements are in the form we used in Mastery Out of Time:

TABLE 1: 13 Tones in Doing form

I identify my purpose goal vision or project

I identify obstacles challenges fears and limitations

I create solutions from the field of all possibilities

I make, define and formulate my plan of action and my blueprint for success

I recognize and gather my resources

I organize my resources and my life efficiently and effectively

I inspire and re attune my self/project/team

I ensure integrity and cohesion and move my plan into action

I act upon realise and accomplish my vision and intention

I manifest produce and complete in excellence

I release let go surrender and honour

I discover share and express my experiences lessons and insights

I celebrate my connection with source and all that is

KEY: ● —

= 'DO' part of the BE-DO-HAVE affirmation

Overleaf, the above statements are no longer bold, firstly to emphasise the addition of the other two parts of the affirmation. Secondly, this indicates them 'fading' as they will eventually be replaced. The reason they have been included this way, is that some readers may find this particular form of the affirmation helpful. In the previous section we looked at the phenomenon that every action has a cause and an effect, or every 'doing' has a 'being' and a 'having'. To complete these statements as more powerful affirmations, the 'being' and' doing' are now added. These are the full affirmations, more or less in their original form:

THE FOUR INTERFACES WITH LIFE

I generally tend to see the 13 tones in spiral or DNA type form, mirroring organic creation. The spiral, Image 17, came to me as an effective way to represent the 13 tones as the four main ways that we interface with life, and channel our creativity.

Starting with '1' on the outside, the spiral moves to '13' on the inside. The eight points of a compass give us four axes, each one representing one of the interfaces. They are, Spirit - as it expresses through us, Life - the life force within us, Senses and feelings, and Mind our out cropping of the 'mental field'.

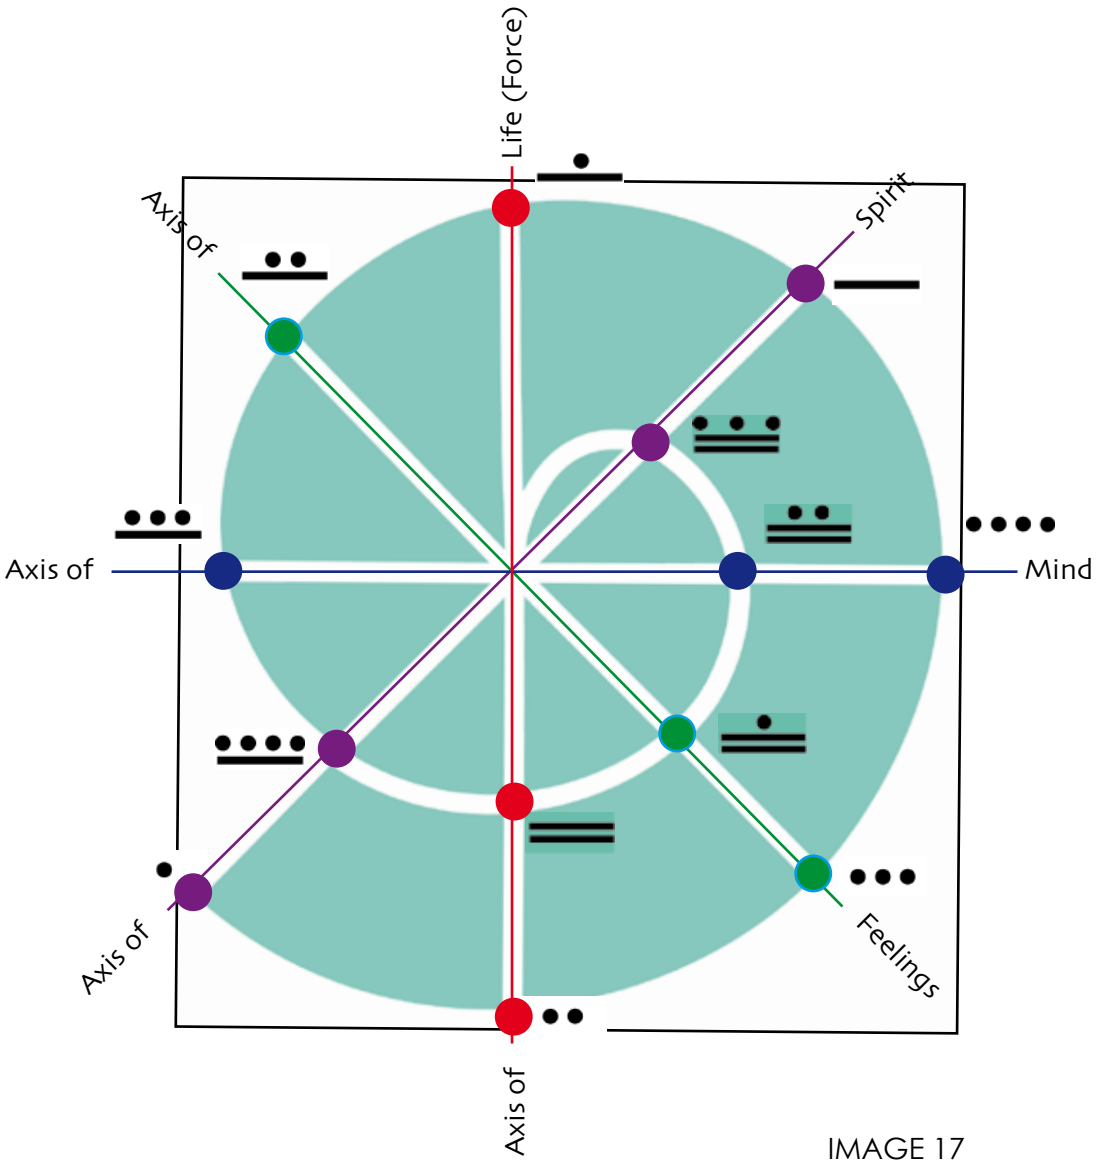

IMAGE 17

These earth or ground the tones in terse definition. Clearer intention at the core of an affirmation and fewer frills round the edges, make for more powerful affirmations or commands.

These are the tone sentences as they ap pear in the Galactic Life Declarations. You will notice that the central phrase having changed the first few words previously, still retains part of the original sentence.

In the Life Tones section the aspects that are left out here are included in italics as optional for you to include in your declaration if you choose.

"I am the light, and I am the darkness that creates the light, and that makes it possible. I am the Goodness Without End and the "Badness" which makes the "Goodness" good. I am all of these things - the All of Everything - and I cannot experience any part of My Self without experiencing All of My Self.

And this is what you don't understand about Me. You want to make Me the one, and not the other. The high and not the low. The good and not the bad. Yet in denying half of Me, you deny half of your Self. And in so doing you can never be Who You Really Are.

I am the Magnificent Everything - and what I am seeking is to know myself experiencially. I am doing this through you...

... Some part of Me must be less than magnificent for Me to choose the part of Me which is magnificent.

So too is it with you.

I am God in the act of creating My Self.

And so, too, are you.

This is what your soul longs to do. This is that for which your spirit hungers..."

THE 20 SEALS OF PERSONAL GROWTH

SELF-MASTERY THROUGH EXPERIENCE

In order to fulfil our divine potential, do we simply "let go and let God", as much Eastern philosophy invites us to do? Or do we "Go get em baby" according to the Western self-help model? Do we quell desire, on the basis that it is of the ego, or do we honour desire as our God-given drive to self-actualize? Do we dissolve self-determination allowing only God's will to prevail and shape our destiny? Or do we rise to the call of our individual free will, and create the life of our dreams?

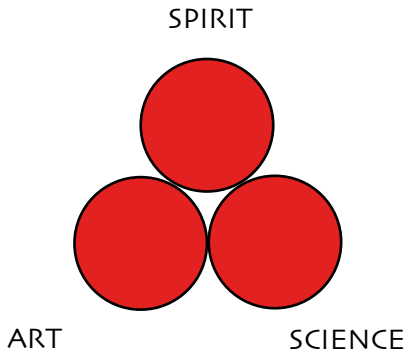

IMAGE 18
BANNER OF PEACE
by José Argüelles

The more I dive into these questions within the framework of this Galactic Cosmology, the more astounding, clear, and satisfying the answers become. Each time these answers return to the same fundamental philosophy of life which always reduces down to numbers and geometry. The answer I received is that both dynamics are required for a life of bliss.

Each dynamic is represented by a triangle, and our lives can only be whole through the embracing of both triangles.

The idea of the triangle came in part from José Argüelles. Here he gives us a model of a triangle made up of three touching circles as a symbol for global peace. The circles represent Art, Science and Spirit. We achieve peace when we attain excellence in each, and a symbiotic balance between all three.

Let us begin this peace within!

Each of us is a trilogy of art, science and spirit: The human body possesses perfect balance and poise, rhythm of the breath and heartbeat, and beauty in design from the inside out. Whenever this beauty expresses itself as action, we can call it art; Scientifically we are complete miracles from the way our DNA works through to how we pro-create, fight disease, and process our thoughts. Anything definable or measurable about us is the science aspect of our condition - particularly our results in life. The spirit in us is the one who observes us and urges us to evolve and fulfil our potential - the one that holds the greatest vision of who can become. When the three are in balance, our natural inclination is to create with awareness, intention and enthusiasm (enthusiasm coming from en thios: "in God"). This is the upward pointing triangle, representing humankind's drive to move from the the relative, brimming with potential, to the absolute, the realisation of potential. To get a better feel for the movement involved, we could define the points of the triangles as verbal nouns. We could say: art is creation, science is observation, and spirit, self-realisation. Once again, this triangle reduces down to Do, Have and Be.

Then there is Source of all Creation, Observation and Self-realisation, that wishes to express itself and experience itself by moving from the absolute of all potential to the relative. It's most evolved vehicle on earth through which to do this is each of us. This dynamic is the downward pointing triangle.

Both triangles are always present in human experience, yet it is consciousness and awareness that makes the difference to the quality of that experience, and the resulting growth. As you re-awaken your 'spiritual memory' you see more and more objectively the 'gap' between the present 'experience' of yourself in any area of your life, and who you could become when you are in tune with your divinity, and with all of life.

The numbers come back to 1- 2 - 3. 1 is unity, the fundamental truth that all is one, with no separation. 2 is polarity, the dynamic that creates relativity which is required for an experience of ourselves. For example, where I am and where I could be, whether I'm living from love or fear, etc. It is also the dynamic through which God can experience herself, as she cannot do so in an absolute universe. '2' also gives us Yin and Yang the two fundamental flows of all of life, and therefore the basis of balance. The two triangles are Yang and Yin respectively. The first, our own will to become our 'greatest' is yang as it is a drive, and I have called it the Triangle of Aspiration Image 20. The second, The Triangle of Inspiration, Image 21, is our invitation to spirit to inspire and fill our lives. It is Yin, as it is an allowing and a receiving. 3 as always, is trinity - Be-Do-Have - the fundamental dance of human evolution (see Image 19A).

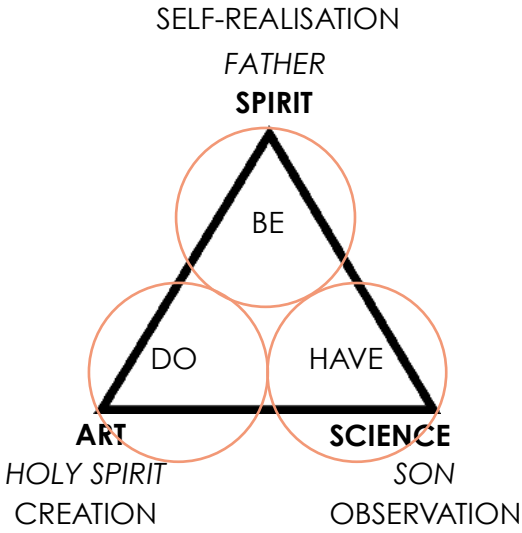

IMAGE 19
TRINITY OF INNER AND OUTER PEACE

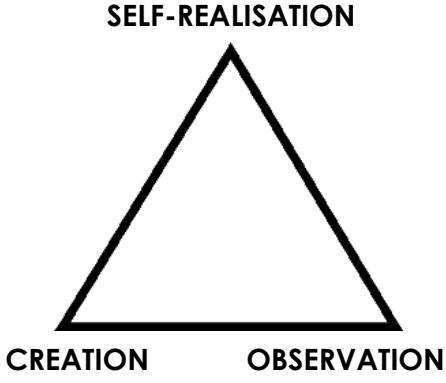

IMAGE 20
TRIANGLE OF ASPIRATION

Our doing is our experience or process and our having is our results. Yet we are reminded that we are neither human doings nor human havings, but human beings. In other words, the Father within the Son - Spirit in human form.

TRIANGLE OF ASPIRATION

The upward pointing triangle relates to our 'upwards' drive for self-realisation:

Self-realisation - Law of Attraction

The 'relative' aspires towards the Absolute in order to know who it really is, and 'come home'. This is our natural aspiration to be the greatest version of the grandest vision of who we could become.

Creation - 'Cause'

We are created in the image and likeness of our Creator. This includes having the vision and the power to re-create who we are, our outer reality and our experience of life, in the moment, through the power of awareness and intention. Alongside this calling of galactic proportion, is the inherent urge to know ourselves through our creation and re-creation. This, again, establishes us at one with our Creator. Created of, and like our Creator, also means we are created perfect in essence and potential.

Observation - 'Effect'

Through objective observation we can rise above our emotional baggage, and see the results of our actions. Results are always measurable in respect of our original aims or intentions, our values and principles or ethics. Our results are our effects in the cause-effect relationship.
When we cease to react to our outcomes and instead choose to respond, we can take corrective measures and grow. This way we can continue to reach more empowered and more effective ways of being in the future. At any time we can 'stop', observe our results or outcomes, choose a new, workable attitude and take corrective action. This way we live and grow consciously, with awareness.

TRIANGLE OF INSPIRATION

TRIANGLE OF INSPIRATION

This triangle relates to Spirit's drive to know itself - through seeing all of Itself reflected in a part of Itself - you!

Self-realisation

The 'Absolute' requires the relative to know itself by having a form of Itself it can observe. For in the absence of anything else It cannot exist (in its own experience).
Expressing Itself through our action, experience and process, allows Universal Spirit to experience or realise Itself. Spirit requires our conscious invitation for this to occur.

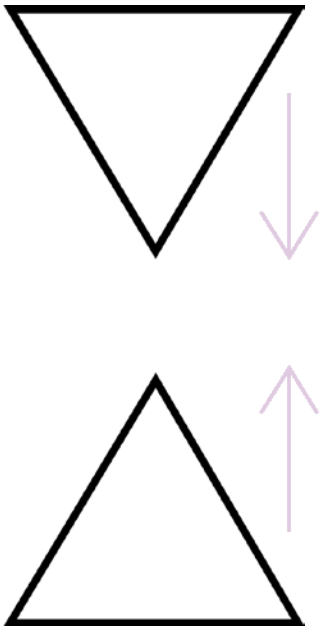
Creation

God or Universal Energy expands the Universe through creation. The Creator of all, creates all in her own image and likeness. The nature of a creator shapes and charaterizes the creation.

CYCLE OF SELF-MASTERY

REFINING THE JOURNEY

IMAGE 22



Observation

The Grand Observer, never judges Itself but simply continues to observe. The Grand Observer also observes 'us' with equal objectivity.

As we and the Creator play out our roles through our experience, the two triangles move towards each other until they touch, and then through each other, becoming a diamond in the fifth and final phase. The cycle then recommences. These reflect the

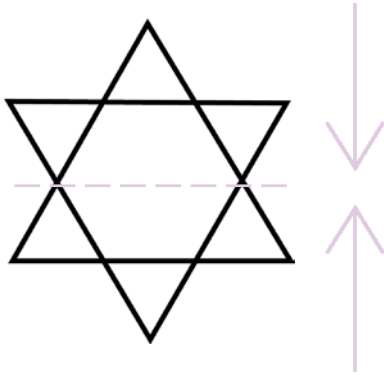

IMAGE 25

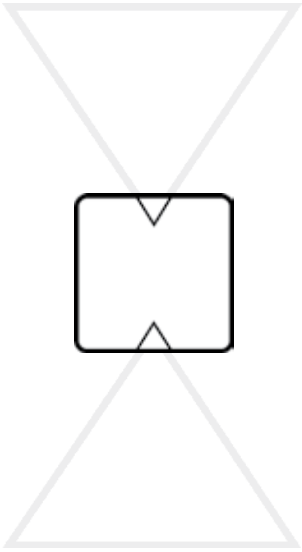
IMAGE 27



Cycle of Self-Mastery as one's awareness expands through the journey of life. It truly is a cycle, for the diamond will eventually become two triangles again as the higher Self co-creates and re-generates itself...

As you ready yourself for your next new journey of self-discovery, the diamond of your potential wraps itself around the blank canvas of your life. The tips of the two triangles appear on the canvas, and so begins a new cycle of birth, re-creation, growth and self-mastery - ever onwards and upwards.

Through our Higher Self wishing to re-create itself in order to observe and realise itself once more, the cycle recommences with a new step 1. See Images 32 & 33. Although they have been called steps or phases, no single phase is more important than any other, just as

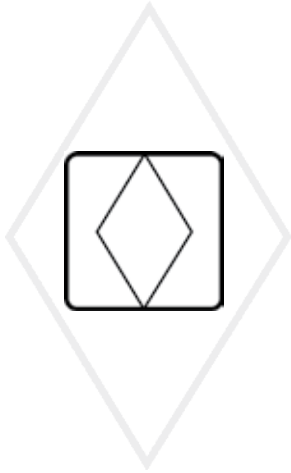

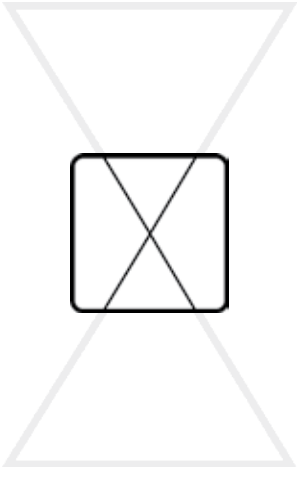

IMAGE 28

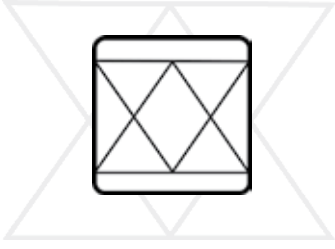

IMAGE 29

IMAGE 30

winter is no more important than summer, or spring than autumn. All are inter-dependent in the symbiotic process of life. Just as the womb cannot know itself without birth, The cycle must continue ad infinitum.

If we take a snapshot of the five phases of the triangles, and 'freeze-frame' the stages of their journey as they approach each other, we come up with the bold symbols (Images 26 to 30) on the previous page.

These symbols came to me in answer to a request to the universe for a simple yet powerful way to present Mayan cosmology. as a practical living tool for the learning/ teaching of manifestation and growth. As a result of these and other user-friendly approaches to the philosophy, this book can be regarded as the Basic Manual for Galactic Prosperity Coaching.

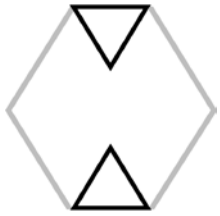

IMAGE 32
Diamond of Self generation observing itself

EVOLVING THROUGH DOING
A process of Self-Mastery

Each snapshot is a window through which to observe yourself in your process of self-mastery - as you create possibilities and respond to each experience of life. Every time, you have the opportunity to raise your awareness of yourself to the next level. It's also worth considering what phase you are in by virtue of your Mayan-Galactic signature (covered in book 2). This gives a practical pointer as to what you can bring to the world. For example, as an Eagle, I am in phase four. According to Image 33, part of my role is to home in on expanding one's life through expanding one's vision.
This sequence of triangles first came to me in 1996, when it was shown as a four step sequence, leaving out the middle step. The notion raised its head only a couple of times since then, but not in earnest, and then went onto the back burner

New Awakening birthed

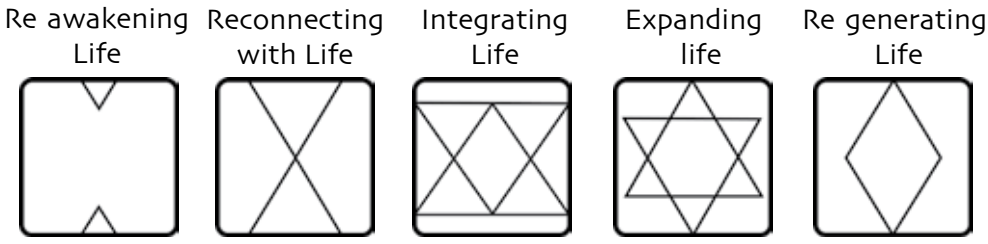

IMAGE 34
Process of Re-generation
through Doing

until very recently. In about 2002 the symbols came to me almost in their present form, although this is their first 'activation into service'. In the little booklet I wrote in 1999: The Mayan Cosmology Handbook, you will note that only the colours from Dreamspell were used, the triangles not being present.

Let us visit the 5-phase process in colour form, before we integrate the shapes with the colours. As with all Mayan cycles, this one begins with red in the east moving in an anti-clockwise cycle - in this case a spiral. The sequence moves through white in the north, Blue in the West , Yellow in the south and Green in the Centre. This is a colour-coded template for other greater cycles: For example the five phase cycle of 260 days where each phase is 52 days, or the five phase cycle of the last 26,000 years where each phase is 5,200 years.

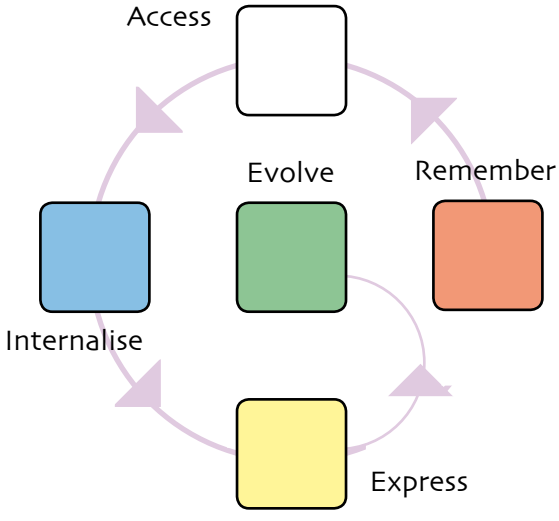

IMAGE 35
Cycle of Evolution
through Doing

First let's unravel the five colour Cycle of Mastery or Spiral of Self-Realisation, by flicking it to the right like a party streamer. We get a straight line running left to right and of course in the same sequence - red

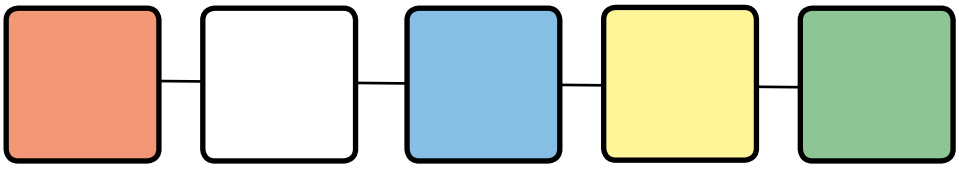

IMAGE 36
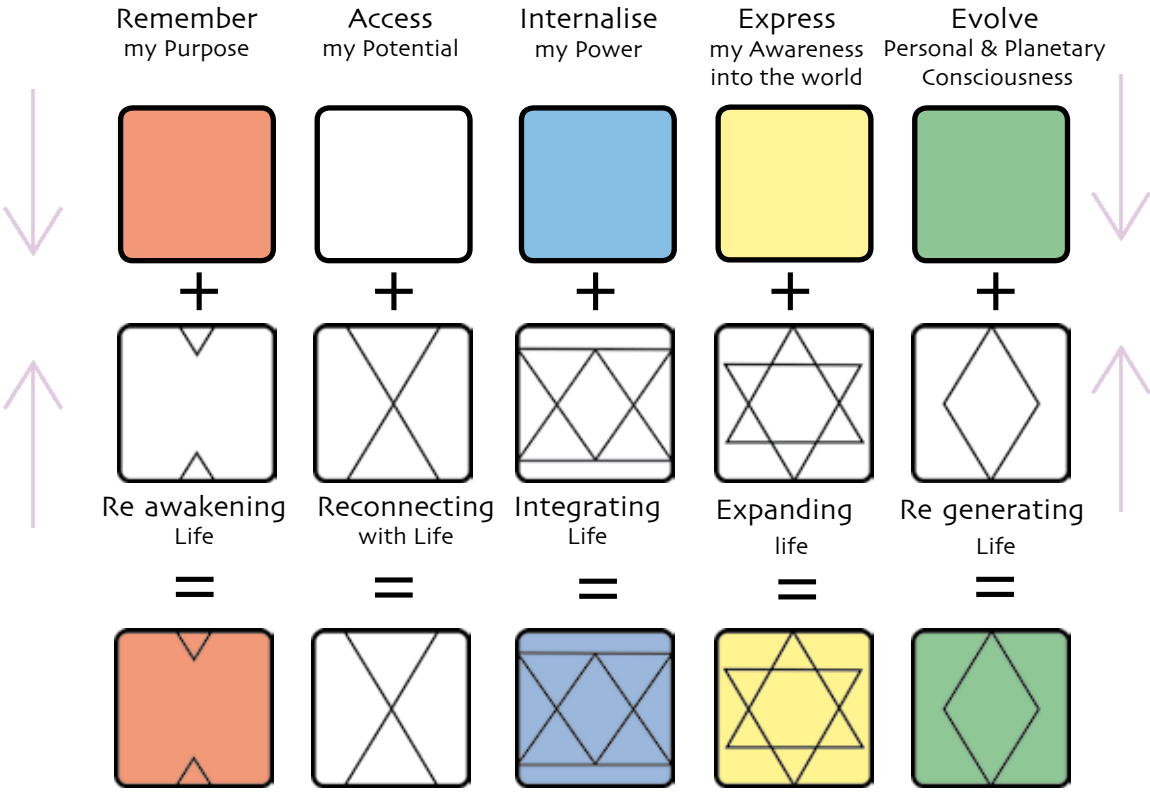
Cycle of Mastery 'unrolled'

TABLE 4A
COMBINED SEQUENCE - NEW SYMBOLS FOR MASTERY OF EXPERIENCE



to green. Now, merging the two sequences, we get the combined sequence of the cycle of mastery of experience. Now we have five squares with changing shapes and colours. Each carries the combined information, representing the 'journey' as a movement through colour and form. Each of these combined images provides the background for four of the 20 Mayan Seals, Signs, glyphs or symbols. These can be depicted as column headings, with each column running four deep see Table 4B. As you will see, this follows a similar pattern to the Matrix of Transformation, Table 6. The final 20 seals result from a merger between the two.

MATRIX OF MASTERY

Let's first explore the essence of each column in greater depth:

THE 5 PHASES OF SELF-MASTERY

"It is not application of technique; it is demonstration of art, simply Being the channel through which flow the infinite aesthetic powers of the Creator."
Mary Burmeister, Jin Shin Jyutsu

"Mastery" is the 5 phase process of re-membering that we and the universe are one, through action and interaction:
1: We re-awaken to the memory that there is an abundant universe to be tapped; 2: We access the abundance; 3: We integrate, internalise and demonstrate it in our lives; 4: We expand this into our lives and express it into the world, and then 5: Mastery comes when we realise we are the source of - and the result of everything - the cause AND the effect. We experience ourselves at cause in the re-generation of our own lives, and empower others to re-generate their own lives. This way we literally play a role in collective human evolution.

The layout on the following pages gives an overview of the action or 'doing-ness' that will most effectively bring us growth and mastery from our experiences. The words in bold are core reference words that appear in the Seal and Tone Declaration pages that follow, and in the Galactic Prosperity Declarations which constitute Book 3.

The image on the right of each section brings into focus the specific phase being related to. The graphic on the left indicates that this phase actually relates to four of the 20 seals, highlighting the column occupied by those four seals.

Life is Purpose

'I re awaken to the memory of my potential'

re awakening life
I Remember
my Purpose

"When one realises one is asleep, at that moment one is already half awake." Ouspensky & Gurdjieff

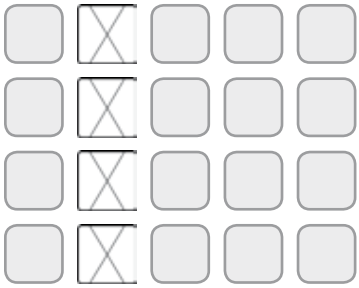
You are equal to any mountain you choose to climb. If you remove the overlay of your subjective experience, you are left with the memory of your unlimited potential. This is the fertile ground for redefining your purpose NOW. Your purpose is who you were born to be and who you have the potential to be. Your role is also to be a bell-ringer to awaken others to their potential. Who do you choose to be, in the on-going moment of NOW?



Life is Supply

'I access my source of power within'

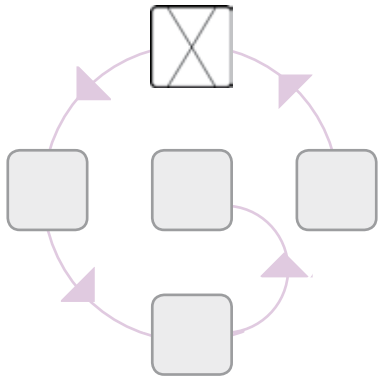
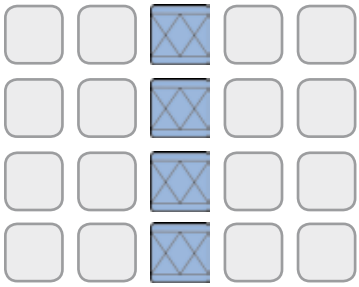
Reconnecting
with Life
I Access
Potential



"Looking for abundance is like a fish swimming through all the oceans looking for water"
Randy Gage

The power of the Universe is in every atom, of your being at every moment. It is waiting to be received, welcomed and tapped. What will it take to access, source, and connect with the Universal Storehouse of talent, power, genius and love. What will it take for you to reconnect with your inner 'star' - your limitless potential and the infinite field of possibilities - and to ignite that reconnection for others?



Life is Flow

'I integrate the experience that I & my
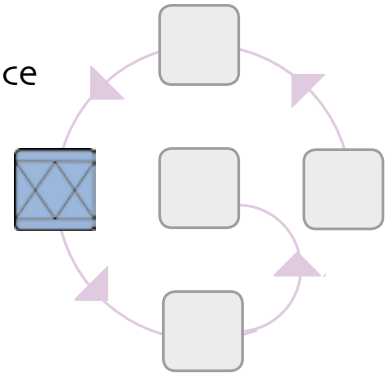
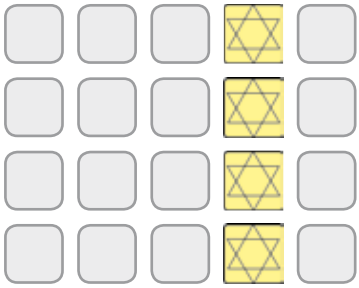
Source are one'

Integrating Life
I Internalise
my Power



"Cause your days and nights to be reflections of the highest idea within you. Allow your moments of Now to be filled with the spectacular extasy of God made manifest through you. Do it through the expression of your love, eternal and unconditional, for all those whose lives you touch. Be a light unto the darkness, and curse it not. Be a bringer of light. You are that. So be it." Neale Donald Walsh, Conversations With God

The Universe is an endless flow of love. When you see yourself at one with all of life, you become one with Source. One with the Source of love, you process life through the heart to integrate your purpose with your higher power. life becomes a playground for processing your experience and playing with possibilities. What will it take for you to flow from the heart, embracing all hearts and the heart of creation itself?



Life is Unfoldment

'I express my reconnection with my potential'

Expanding life
I Express my Awareness into the world

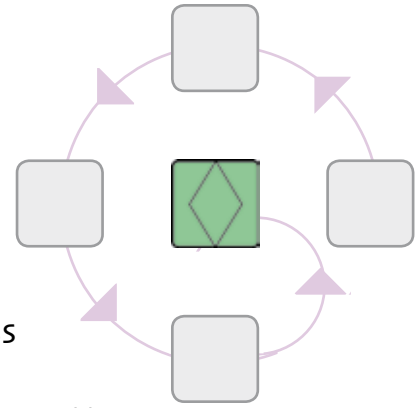
"The most effective of your earthly masters have demonstrated this. They have said you can be like them... Many spiritual teachers have shared with you the secret that deciding who you really are and being it, is the fastest means of affecting and creating your inner self and your outer world. This is not a new teaching. Yet what may be new is your decision to try it". Walsch, New Revelations

The Universe is an arena of excellence for the expression of possibilities and possibility consciousness. what will it take to be a full player and express your excellence? What will it take for the Universe to unfold through you so you can express your expanding awareness into the world? What will it take to reconnect with your potential and become a model for the expression of creativity truth and love?

Life is Evolution

'I empower people
to live their potential'

Re generating Life
I Evolve Personal &
Planetary Consciousness



"Your holiness reverses all the laws of the world.
It is beyond every restriction of time, space, distance and limits of any kind.
Your holiness is totally unlimited in its power because it establishes you at one with the Mind of your Creator" A Course in Miracles, Workbook

Life is a constant process of evolution. Personal evolution is the process of becoming who you really are, which is far greater than you can possibly imagine. When you synchronize with life, you touch your holiness - your wholeness. When you teach, lead and coach others to live their potential you raise global consciousness and take a critical step in your own evolution. What will it take for you to truly empower others?

"How does one become a butterfly?" she asked.
"You must want to fly so much you are willing to give up being a caterpillar."
Hope for the Flowers

THE MEDICINE WHEEL
Seasons of Change

"To everything there is a season, and a time for every purpose under heaven"
Ecclesiastes

"Love...fills my cup,
like four seasons in one day"
Crowded House

Many indigenous cultures of the world have more in common than a '13 moon' based calendar. The American Indians, The Celts, many ancient cultures of Asia and South America, and the Maya, follow a four directional 'medicine wheel'. These directions tend to hold cardinal, philosophical pillars of thought, and at the same time constitute the staging posts of never-ending cycles of evolution, growth, and learning. The American Indians use the medicine wheel as a template for literally scores of applications. In all cases it relates aspects of the journey of life, to earth's journey through space and time. The four directions of earth each hold their own sacredness and meaning, and each cycle commences in the east - echoing the rising of the sun. Unlike the North American Indians, the cycles of the Maya, who preceded them, run anti-clockwise.

In most cases, each direction has its own particular colour, to enhance the meaning held by the direction. The colours in the Americas were generally red, white, black, and yellow which reflect quite specifically, the four colour races of earth. It was also useful that the locally grown corn is in these same four colours. Hence corn is often used in in Native American ceremony.

I prefer to embrace the Dreamspell version, by José Argüelles, where blue is used instead of black. To my mind it's easy enough to relate the blue direction to the black peoples (after all I'm really a dusty pink colour rather than white!). Yet if these colours are truly to be a template for life, then it makes sense to have colours that represent life. As the primaries, red, blue and yellow, create all colour, and white is all colour. This seems a more representational model.

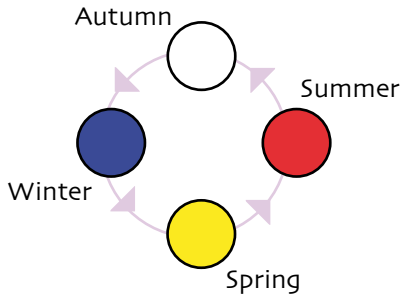

IMAGE 50: The 4 Seasons

THE CYCLE OF TRANSFORMATION

I am particularly interested in the 'wheels' on this page, for they all represent the cycle of transformation. As life is in constant change and transformation, it is of key importance to have a workable model that represents this. This way we can become more consciously involved in our own unfoldment.

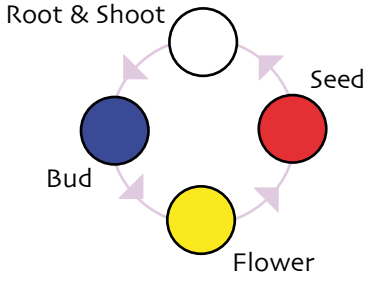

IMAGE 51: Germination

REFINING THE VEHICLE

José Argüelles refers to the core cycle as 'initiating, refining, transforming and ripening'. I like this very much, and to me it speaks of gaining wisdom through what we initiate. However, if the model is to be a truly powerful basis for transformation, it needs to go deeper than these phases which are 'doing and having' effects, to the level of being and cause. To move to the level of being at cause, the question is "who, how, or what do I choose to be, that will best facilitate these effects of doing and having?"

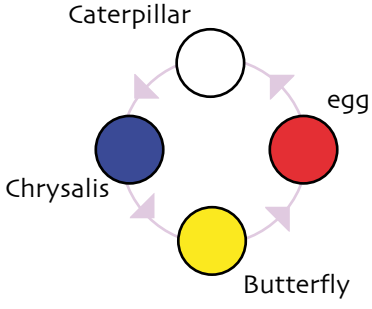

IMAGE 52: Metamorphosis

In other words, what would the most effective cause be, that underlies Jose's steps?

IMAGE 53: Dreamspell cycle

To get a better grip on this, lets take an experience that's happening right now - You are reading this book. Only through being willing, could you have purchased or borrowed this book (initiated it into your experience), and only through being willing could you be reading it now. For the information in this book to refine and expand your understanding and sense of self, you might agree that being open is fairly critical. And even if you are open, you will only receive intellectual knowledge and/or a temporary good feeling. Only through being truly accepting and embracing of the material - through personalising and adopting it in your life NOW - will transformation and wisdom arise from the experience. Like the caterpillar who has to 'die' to its caterpillar self before it can transform, you would need to surrender attitudes and thought forms that keep you stuck 'in the past'. And whether a new YOU ripens out of the experience, or takes flight as does the butterfly, depends on you being responsible and free. Free inside your own skin, and free to take a stand on the transformation you have undergone.

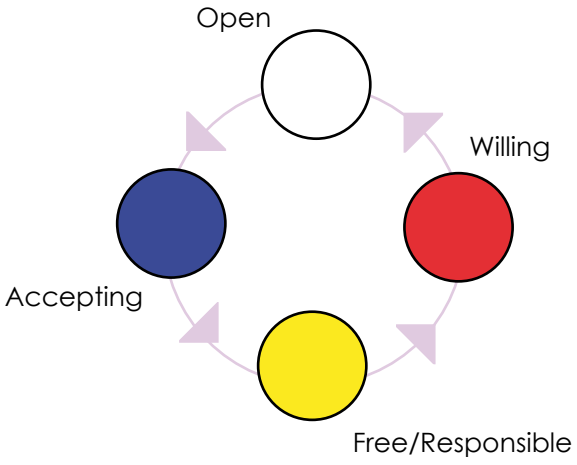

IMAGE 54:
Transformation Cycle

Transformation is a shift in perception, that occurs at the core of your being. This is also known as a paradigm shift. Being responsible for your life, you own your experience. Free and responsible, you can choose your future experiences, and your future responses to events in your life.

The American Indian wheel, Image 55, also relates aspects of being to the transformation cycle. I find it a particularly useful and user-friendly tool for mastering our emotions, and have incorporated it in the Seal Declarations later in the book, which become the Galactic Prosperity Declarations in Book 3

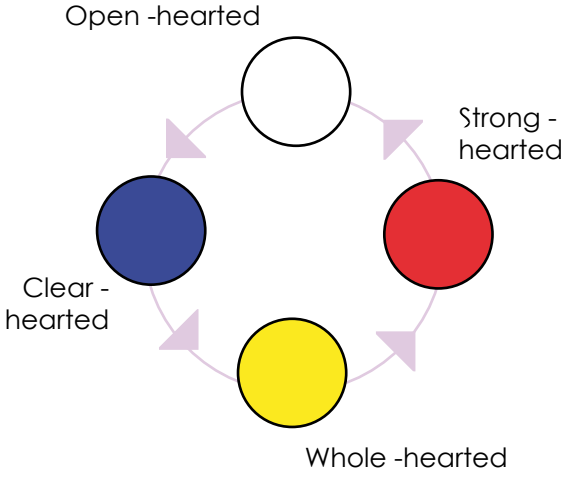

IMAGE 55:
Seasons of The Heart

In the Mayan Cosmology Handbook

I wrote in 1998, I kept things simple by using colours alone. Yet not everyone has the gift of sight, and of those who can see, not all people can distinguish colours from each other. Yet I was looking for a fail-safe, user-friendly, easy to teach system that could reach all people. I realised that colours alone would not suffice, despite being the powerful primaries that come from Dreamspell. Having meditated on a sequence of shapes that would represent the transformational cycle from seed to flower or egg to butterfly, I received clear guidance. The shapes in Image 56 are what came to me. With a great sense of fulfilllment, I now unrol them for the first time!...

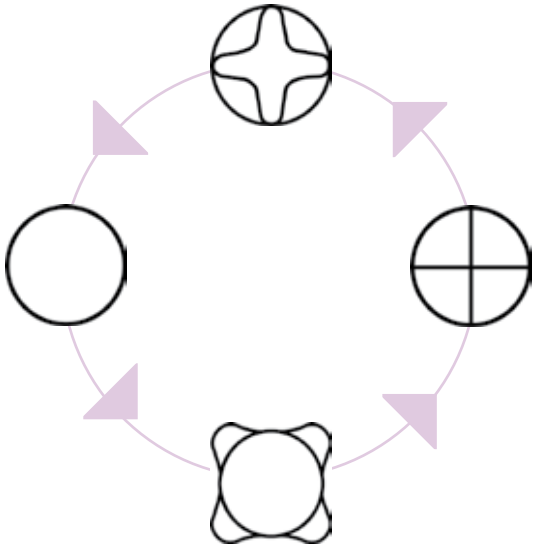

IMAGE 56:
Transformation Cycle Symbol outlines

The cross within a circle in the east position is like a seed or butterfly egg sealed in an envelope, bursting with willingness and intent. The cross in a circle is a very powerful and ancient symbol. The horizontal line of the cross represents our earthly relationships, and the vertical our Divine relationship. These are in balance and harmony, within the omnipresent circle of creative spirit. When this is the context that shapes intention (or willingness, Image 54), then that intention is a potent creative force for good.

Combined sequence - New symbols for 'Transformation of Being'

In the North, the strong lines of the cross soften and part in a gesture of openness. The seed pops open to send down roots and send up shoots and leaves. Through openness to life - elementally - the plant receives nutrition from the earth, carbon dioxide from the air, quenching from water and warmth and light and the fiery sun.

And the egg pops open to reveal a caterpillar who is open to the elements of life largely by eating the nourished leaves. With enough nutrition to refine its gossamer thread, the caterpillar weaves its chrysalis under a leaf.

In the west we have transformation. The original seed has disappeared - has died to its previous self - and now we have buds, a pregnancy of the imminent birth of a new, glorious way of being. The circle is now blank to indicate that both a death and a birth have occurred - you could see the circle as both empty and full.

It pleased me greatly that the symbol for the south looks like a flower, a butterfly and also a star. For when you are free, and responsible for your life, you can blossom, soar, and become the 'star' that you are in essence and potential. It also delighted me to come across the book Last Hours of Ancient Sunlight by Thom Hartmann, in which he says:

"Everything you see is matter which was literally created in the heart of a star."

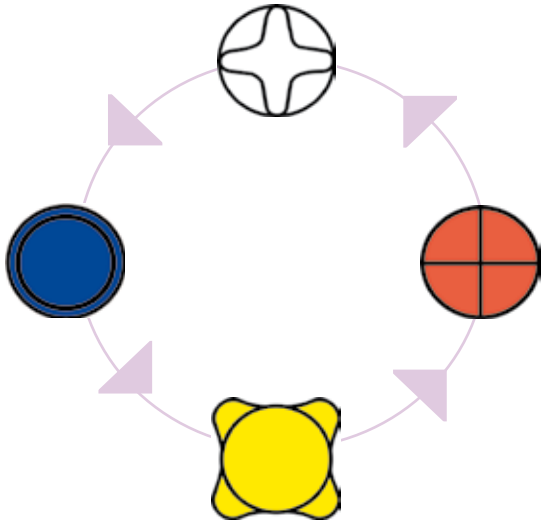

IMAGE 57:
Transformation Cycle - New symbols

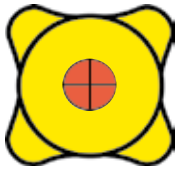

IMAGE 58:
Germinating Flower
Pregnant Butterfly
Star and Starseed

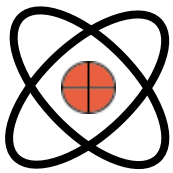

IMAGE 59:
Atom with Nucleus of a new idea

And so stellar freedom births earthy willingness (see Image 58). From flower to seed and from butterfly to egg, the cycle continues. The symbol in the south also uncannily resembles an atom. The nucleus of that atom is once again the positive nucleus of change - of a new idea, a new start - in the east!

When we merge the colours with the new symbols, we arrive at four new coloured symbols, representing the cycle of transformation of being.

Let us unravel the cycle downwards as if it were a yo-yo see Table 5. When we extend them across all 20 Mayan seals in a grid, see Table 6, then each one comes to represent 5 seals. In other words the aspect of being willing is common for each of the 5 red seals. Equally, the 5 white seals are open, the 5 blue, embracing, and the 5 yellow, free and responsible.

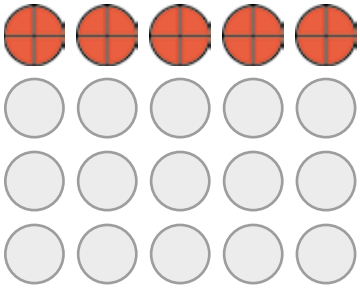
EVOLVING YOUR BEING



Life is Energy

"I embody the life force of nature"

willing strong hearted intending

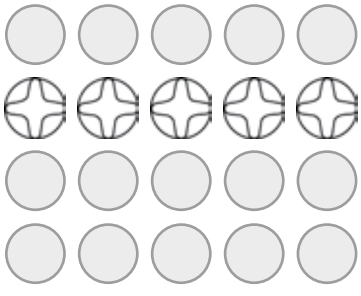
Whatever you can do or dream you can begin it
Boldness has genius magic and power in it
Begin it Now Goethe

Life is an endless flow of conscious energy known by the hindus as pranha and the taoists as chi When you are willing you step into the river of nature's life force and birthing force. The energy then flows through you, empowering you to take the initia tive You launch new creation or the re creation of yourself as the person you wish to become Your quality and depth of intention shapes your outcomes



Life is Truth

"I receive a higher truth"

open open hearted communicating

"No matter how wonderful you think your theologies, your ideologies your cosmologies they can be full of even more wonder Be open therefore be OPEN. Don't close off the possibility of new truth because you have been comfortable with the old one Life begins at the end of your comfort zone " Neale Donald Walsh Conversations With God

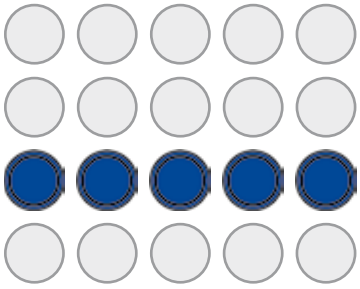
The Universe is constantly in communication with you The communication is always a Higher Truth based in love Only by being open will you see the signs hear the message and feel the love Only when you are without the burden of judgement pre conception and the need to be 'right' can you perceive with the eyes ears and heart of a child - as if for the first time. "Become ye as little children"...



Life is Change

"I become my vision for change"

embracing clear hearted committing

"How does one become a butterfly?"she asked.
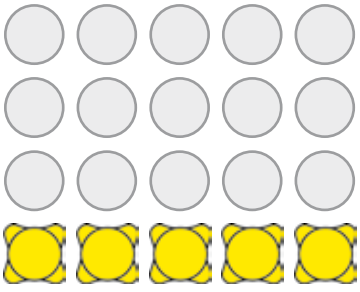
" You must want to fly so much that you are willing to give up being a caterpillar." Trina Paulus, Hope for the flowers

Life is change When you have a clear vision for change and hold that vision with commitment you become the source of your life By surrendering to and becoming that vision you are the author of your journey and not at the mercy of life's tides and rapids You resist life's own current of change at your loss Only by being embracing of the flow, can you ride the rapids and surf the tides of possibility.



Life is Awareness

"I own my changed
pattern of perception"

free whole hearted harvesting

"... and he knew with practiced ease that he was not bone and feather but a perfect idea of freedom and flight, limited by nothing at all" Richard Bach, Jonathan Livingston Seagull

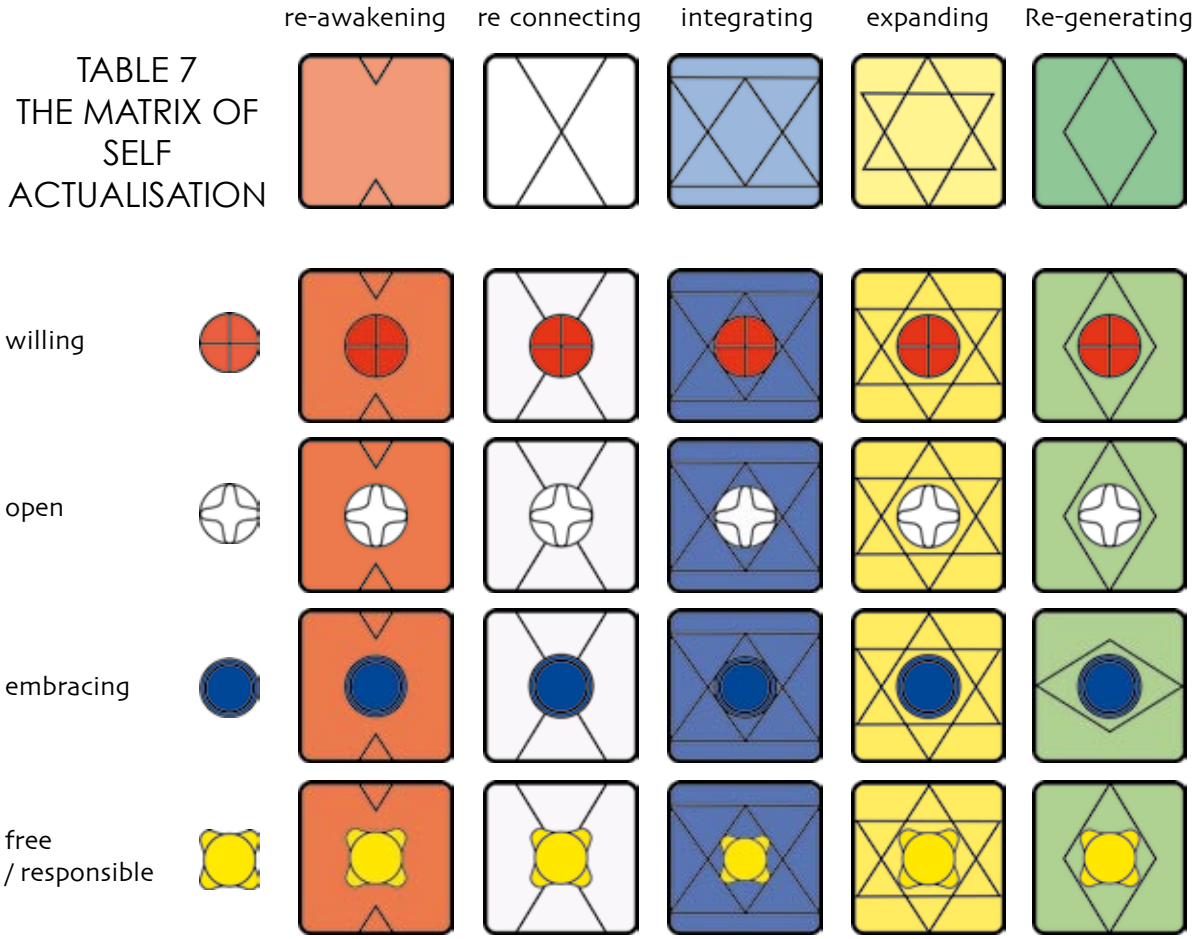
The Universe is pure awareness The degree to which you experience oneness with the universe depends on your awareness - your level of perception. When you take responsibility for a pattern of perception that does not serve you you can change it for one that does By owning new perception whole heartedly you are the source of your own freedom The seeds of your new attitude harvest fruits of a new reality

THE COMBINED MATRIX OF SELF-ACTUALISATION

The Cycle of Transformation dovetails with The Cycle of Mastery



The seals have come together - quite synchronistically, in a form similar to the Chinese I Ching coins - except reversed. The Chinese coins are round with a square in the middle, the square being earth set in the circle of heaven. These new seals represent heaven within earth - or heaven within. Re-discovering this, is the secret to entering 'the Kingdom'.

You will notice that the symbol for storm has been rotated 90^0. I received very clear guidance about this. The two reasons I'm aware of so far are: Firstly, as Storm signifies change, it's appropriate that the diamond 'changes' direction. The second reason is that this way storm comes to look like an eye, and to undergo true transformation in any situation, you need to enter into 'the eye of the storm', and embrace it.

I would have preferred the inner symbols - the transformation symbols - to have been larger. unfortunately the size was dictated by the inner diamond in the blue column. The guidance was very clear again, that the yellow star/flower/butterfly had to stay within that diamond! I find it interesting that the one seal that determined the format of all the others, is the seal called Human!

"In the beginning was the Word,
and Word was with God,
and the Word was God"
John 1, 1

"I suddenly realized that in the language, or at any rate in the spirit of the Glass Bead Game, everything actually was all-meaningful, every symbol and combination of symbols led not to single examples, experiments and proofs, but into the center, the mystery and innermost heart of the world, into primal knowledge. Every transition from major to minor in a sonata, every transformation of a myth or a religous cult, every classical or artistic formulation was, I realized in that flashing moment, if seen with a truly meditative mind, to be nothing but a direct route into the interior of the cosmic mystery, where in the alternation between inhaling an exhaling, between heaven and earth, between Yin and Yang,
holiness is forever being created."
Hermann Hesse, The Glass Bead Game

13 TONE & 20 SEAL DECLARATIONS

Throughout the preceeding chapters a form of words develops for each of the 13 tones and the 20 seals. For each, we arrive at three phrases: a BE phrase; a DO phrase; and a HAVE phrase, giving six in total. These ultimately result in the GALACTIC PROSPERITY DECLARATIONS that make up Book 3 in the series.

This section provides the penultimate step: the two halves, before the whole declarations are formed. It provides the BE-DO-HAVE declarations of 13 the tones first and then the 20 seals.

As one moves through the Mayan Calendar of 260 days or kin, one visits both the sequence of 13 and of 20, on a daily basis. Yet those cycles are also steps for self-development that can be taken independently of the calendar. For example, one can visit the 13 steps of goal-achievement over 13 days or moons, yet one can utilise them organically in a different way. You might set a goal or dream for yourself and work through each step in sequence, only moving to the next step when you have completed the one you're on. That way, the steps may take completely differing lengths of time, and the goal will take the time for achievement that your level of belief can accept. Alternatively, you might address all 13 phases in a single day!

I run a wonderfully creative one-day workshop designed to give the attendee an experience of co-creatorship. Being a creation workshop, it is appropriate to home-in on the 13 step Cycle of Creation. The course involves hand painting through 13 stages: One moves through13 colours, the tones and semi-tones of the musical octave, and at the same time through the changing foci of the 13 Mayan tones of creation. Within a few hours, all 13 Tone Declarations have been read out, and experienced. These set the scene and generate the focus and the mind-set for creativity and co-creation.

Equally, you could work with the 20 seals in whatever way you choose. For example, if you are working to change patterns of behaviour that no longer serve you, the 20 Seal Declarations can be very powerful. They can be used either for personal transformation, or to facilitate culture change in an organization.

At the start of both the Tone Declaration and Seal Declaration pages is a key showing the origin of the phrases that constitute each set of words.

TABLE 9:
EXPLANATION OF LAYOUT ON TONE PAGES

Below is what the Tone Affirmation looks like on each page. On the left are symbols showing the cause and effect, the Being, Doing and Having of each Tone. The symbols on the right refer to the origins of the particular phrase,

Erxample of Tone 10:

I am wholly committed, trusting, and fully aware

I fulfill my inner drive by completing in excellence manifesting, and producing in excellence, (optional)

in order to recognise myself as creator spirit in matter and heaven on earth (optional)

In Book 2, there is a chapter called The 13 Tones in depth. Here, each tone page has a body of text which expands on the affirmation above.

The 'Optional' parts' may be included in any Tone affirmation (e.g. above) or Declaration (See 260 Galactic Prosperity Declarations in Book 3) you construct. The following Seal and Tone Declaration pages provide these options so you can add emphasis to a personal affirmation. The declarations in Book 3 omit them to keep the statement as simple, yet impactful as possible.

ATTRACTING WHAT YOU DECLARE

As was mentioned in the Chapter A MARRIAGE MADE IN HEAVEN, Law of Attraction, the tones and seals invoke the Law of Attraction. The Law of Attraction when embraced, will ensure that you draw into your life whatever you desire, providing that you are single minded about it, declare it as 'already achieved', and that you back up your focus with emotion. The form of each declaration facilitates this. Adding the emotion is, of course, up to you.

I am Source, creator, author

I activate spirit through identifying my purpose goal, vision or project (optional)

In order to be clear about what I intend to create and align my will with Higher will

I am risking, honest and authentic

I sustain my inner drive by rising to challenge

B. The symbols down the right refer to the source of the words from the cycles of Mastery and Transformation, and the combined Matrix of Evolution.
C. The symbols down the left are reminders of the Be-Do-Have relationship (see chapter: BE-D0-HAVE, Cause and Effect)
D. The last sentence is optional. It is not included in the Galactic Prosperity Declarations in Book 3, which are intended to give maximum impact using few words. For some people, or from time to time, the extra words can give additional emphasis.

BECOMING WHAT YOU DECLARE

The 20 seals bring into play the Law of Attraction by ensuring that you become the person you wish to become and are worthy of becoming. The law states that "power flows to the focus of attention and intention, when backed up by strong emotion". The form of each declaration facilitates this, and invites you to add emotion yourself.
